New Push For Bank

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

The bank of B.C. application for a federal charter will be reactivated immediately in the Senate, Premier Bennett said Thursday.

The previous application died along with those for two other proposed banks, the Bank of Western Canada and Laurentide, when the last session ended.

EASY PASSAGE

Mr. Bennett predicted a quick and easy passage for the B.C. Bank bill through the Senate this time.

It will be in the Commons that B.C. will face the test of what the premier terms the government's "wish" to invest in the proposed new bank with headquarters in Vancouver.

He expects the three bank charter applications to be passed quickly by the Senate and then turned over by the Commons to a special banking committee.

WILL STUDY

At the same time this Commons committee will probably study the Pearson government's proposed amendment to the Bank Act that would prohibit provinces from buying bank shares.

"What happens in the Commons is something we will meet when it comes," said the premier. But he added that at this stage B.C. would probably make further representations to Ottawa.

STAGE WAS SET

Mr. Bennett said the stage was set for quick Senate approval of the B.C. bill when it referred original application back to the banking committee at the end of last session.

The B.C. bill will be unchanged except that the section limiting government participation to 10 per cent will be omitted, Mr. Bennett said.

This stipulation is now contained in amendments to the provincial Revenue Act, passed at the last session, which permits the government to purchase up to 10 per cent of the shares in any chartered bank.

Naval Craft Targets In U.S. Raid

From Reuters, UPI

U.S. Navy aircraft Thursday made what was believed to be the first strike directed specifically against North Vietnamese naval vessels.

Elsewhere:

● South Vietnamese forces massed for a major attack on a concentration of 3,000 Viet Cong troops threatening the U.S. base at Da Nang.

● In Washington President Johnson met with top advisers on Viet Nam amid preparations to boost U.S. military aid to South Viet Nam, but the Pentagon clamped tight security on details of the aid.

● For the first time, U.S. Marine ground troops fought Communist guerrillas on Vietnamese battlefields while 82 U.S. and Vietnamese planes buried 60 tons of bombs and rockets on North Vietnamese targets.

● In the naval air attack, U.S. A-4 Skyhawk jets hit two patrol boats and two large junks at the entrance to the Vinh estuary, about 150 miles south of Hanoi.

While President Johnson apparently remained unimpressed by demands at home and abroad for an end to U.S. air attacks on North Viet Nam, leading officials said the U.S. would send several thousand U.S. officers and men to South Viet Nam soon to help with supply and training problems.

● The Marines' battlefield baptism came under a scorching sun when a platoon of about 50 men, on a reconnaissance patrol was surprised by the Viet Cong. After an exchange of small arms fire, in which one Marine was slightly wounded, the Viet Cong withdrew. Two other Marines were treated for heat prostration.

Private War of Private Pearson

Ypres 'Hero' Just Off Ship

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson recalls the battle of Ypres by connecting it with the day when a head-writer tried to turn him out of a London restaurant.

Mr. Pearson told the story at a press conference after noting the 50th anniversary of the First World War battle where Canadian soldiers stood firm in the face of the first gas attack launched by the Germans.

The future prime minister was a private in the Canadian Army at the time, although he later became a pilot with the Royal Flying Corps.

Mr. Pearson said he was in London on leave with another soldier shortly after arrival in Britain. The two tried to go into a posh restaurant and were told to leave by the headwaiter because the restaurant served only officers.

At this point, Mr. Pearson said, an Englishman recognized them as Canadians and rose from his table to push the headwaiter aside.

"These are two of the men who held the line at Ypres," the Englishman said in a voice heard throughout the dining room as he invited the two Canadians in.

Mr. Pearson said with a grin that the incident was a bit embarrassing because "we were just off the troopship and the only things we had with us were the temptations of London."

New Shocker

POLICE TIED TO SECOND HEIST

Chief Booth

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police Chief Ralph Booth rocked the city Thursday by connecting members of his department with a second major crime.

He made his announcement as veteran police officers were still speaking in awe and horror of the slaughtering by a Vancouver policeman of his wife and six children. The policeman then shot himself to death. (See also Page 10.)

The constable — Leonard Hogue — had been connected by the department Wednesday with the February theft of $1,250,000 in mutilated currency from a Canadian Pacific Railway warehouse.

Chief Booth said several members of the force were under suspicion in that robbery and the earlier $13,000 holdup of a branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia in suburban Dunbar.

An internal probe of the department would be stepped up, he said.

Report to Bonner

The chief's disclosures were followed by an announcement by Mayor Bill Ratcliffe that the police commission would prepare a report on the investigation.

The commission's report will be submitted to the provincial attorney-general's department, said the mayor, who made his announcement following a closed police commission meeting at which Chief Booth submitted a report.

In a statement, Chief Booth said the methods used in both robberies were similar — just before each crime there were false holdup calls that sent city police on wild goose chase. The criminals had knowledge of police procedure "and how to protect themselves under such circumstances," he said. He said the police department had not been surprised when a former Vancouver police officer was arrested in Edmonton in connection with the currency robbery.

"We had a strong suspicion they had some internal help,"

Joseph Percival, 37, the former constable, and James McDougall, 33, both of Vancouver, were arrested in Edmonton last week. They are due to appear in Edmonton police court Friday on charges of retaining stolen property.

Hogue was a close friend of Percival. He had been under investigation in the currency robbery and knew it. On Monday he was involved in a minor car accident.

Wednesday he used a borrowed .37-calibre magnum revolver, large enough to knock over big game, to kill first his wife, then his six children. He had chased some of the children as far as the basement, stopping to reload.

Deputy Chief John Flak said Thursday several policemen

With Foreign Countries

Quebec Plans To Make Own Treaties

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec intends to negotiate directly with foreign countries on matters the province will be called on to put into action, Paul Gerin-Lajoie, Quebec education minister, said Thursday night.

Addressing French, Belgian and Swiss university representatives, the Quebec government's constitutional expert said the province will fill this role "because of its function as the collective instrument of French-Canadians."

His statement was expected to cause angry reaction in Ottawa, which has always been strongly against any agreements between individual provinces and foreign governments.

Prime Minister Pearson told an Ottawa press conference earlier Thursday he is sure that Mr. Gerin-Lajoie will agree that the government of Canada makes treaties with other countries and other countries deal with the Canadian government.

OTTAWA 'POWERLESS'

"The federal government is completely powerless to assure the working out and application of agreements it concludes with other countries if these fall within the sphere of provinces," said Mr. Gerin-Lajoie.

"It is not only for constitutional and for internal political reasons that Quebec has decided to negotiate agreements directly with foreign countries but also for reasons of efficiency."

DETERMINATION

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie said the recent signing of an agreement between Quebec and France on an exchange of students, teachers and researchers illustrates the determination of Quebec to collaborate with other members of the French-speaking world "and to make known its real face to the modern world."

He said Quebec intends to negotiate agreements with foreign countries not only within exclusively provincial fields but also in areas of common interest with the federal government.

Cathedral

Bomb Thrown At Altar

NEW YORK (AP) — A man hurled a gasoline bomb at the main altar of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Cathedral Thursday night and it exploded amid a small group of worshippers. One woman was burned.

The man, described as a Negro in his late 20s, raced out a side door, leaving behind a second, unexploded bomb.

There were about 250 persons in the cathedral at the time.

It was the second incident within the cathedral in less than a week. Good Friday services were disrupted when a former mental patient threw a concrete block through a glass case containing a life-sized statue of Pope Pius XII.

Official Quits

Assistant U.S. secretary of commerce Herbert Klein, who made profit of about $14,000 by buying option on 2,000 shares of stock in Texas Gulf Sulphur Company ore at Timmins, Ont., has resigned.

PTAs Urge Clinic

Mrs. Ronald Teneh, 1296 Camrose, president, Doncaster PTA, left, and Mrs. Catherine Schoen, North Surrey, examine United Nations display at PTA convention.—(William Boucher)

The B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation will urge the provincial government to set up a clinic for treatment of child molesters and sex offenders.

The federation will send telegrams to Premier Bennett, Attorney-General Bonner and Health Minister Martin.

TORONTO MODEL

Model for the proposed clinic is the Forensic Clinic, Toronto. Mrs. Ross Sharpe, chairman of the child protection and forensic clinic committee, said Thursday the committee believes that understanding the origins of sex deviation must come from "an intensive and systematic study of the emotionally disturbed sex delinquent child."

CUSTODIAL CARE

She said doctors at the Toronto Forensic Clinic often find that patients need custodial care, but are unable to declare that the patient suffers from a certifiable form of mental illness.

"Therefore, the courts are unable to assist them until an offence has been committed."

NORMAL ATTITUDE

Mrs. Sharpe said prevention of sexual deviation must be based on proper family relationships and a normal attitude to sex.

She said parents are often perplexed about sex.

"They are not sure whether to be excessively strict, or excessively permissive."

ADVICE NOT ENOUGH

Simple advice is not enough because the attitude towards sex in the home is "mainly determined by unconscious factors."

"It should not be difficult for the family physician and pediatrician to be aware of disturbances of sexual life in the home, and greater attention should be paid to sex attitudes in the home."

ABHORRENCE

"Because so many people react to sex deviation with abhorrence there has been a tendency to see it as akin to criminal insanity."

She said that in actual fact, sex deviates are normal personalities in most other respects.

She said the future looks "quite promising" for treatment.

CAN BE ASSISTED

This is not to deny, however, that many cases, especially cases of homosexuality, are still intractable.

"Even in the cases of homosexuality the majority can be assisted to control the drive and come to terms with the accompanying neurotic anxiety."

PANEL DISCUSSION

Education research and its findings was the topic of a panel discussion Thursday.

Panelists were: F. J. Cairnie and R. K. McLaughlin, education department and curriculum consultants; W. S. Gibson, industrial education consultant and H. C. O'Donnell, elementary education director.

REPORT CARRIES

Some of their comments are: "The department of education is examining the report card-letter grade evaluation. There may be changes made when the department's committee makes its report."

GOOD PARENT

O'Donnell: Don't think you (parents) have to understand your child's subjects to be a good parent.

"Educational television should be confined to those areas peculiarly suited to television. 'Machines will never replace teachers.'"

WORE EXPENSIVE

"Education is going to be more and more expensive."

Cairnie: "Pupils are not cylinders, which can be researched analytically. Each is an individual."

It is unfortunate that the word "research" has been connected with Madison Avenue youth-style advertising.

TO THE LIMIT

Gibson: "Students should acquire education to the limit of their abilities."

"The commercial program in field basic training, so that students can enter employment immediately upon leaving school."

"The widest variety of subjects should be available to students."

WORK DISPLAYS

Throughout the convention delegates examined displays of student work in classrooms of Central Junior High School.

The United Nations and the Red Cross were featured in display booths.

Federalists' Book Best-Seller

An eight-page Facts about the War in Viet Nam pamphlet, published by the Victoria branch of the World Federalists of Canada, has become a national best-seller.

"With 4,500 copies already distributed, another order for 2,000 has just been received from the printers," said Dr. E. Harvey Richardson, president of the local group.

Cartage Firms Given Notice

VANCOUVER (CP) — The teamsters union served 48-hour strike notice Thursday on 41 cartage companies in Greater Vancouver.

The move followed a breakdown in negotiation talks aimed at settling a dispute over wages. Deputy labor minister William Sands, who attempted to mediate Tuesday, failed to break the deadlock in negotiations.

Shastri Visits Canada in June

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Shastri of India will visit Canada shortly before the conference of Commonwealth prime ministers is held in London in June, Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday.

This would be a little later than the time originally planned for the Indian leader's visit.

Parents Suing Drug Company

TORONTO (CP) — The parents of three Toronto infants deformed at birth in 1962 have filed suits totalling $3,600,000 against the Ohio pharmaceutical firm that produced the drug thalidomide.

The couples filed statements of claim against Richardson-Merrell Inc. in a Cleveland court.

RCMP Adds Rivard To List

Lucien Rivard has been added to the list of Canada's most wanted criminals, Victoria RCMP announced Thursday.

Rivard is wanted by Quebec Provincial Police for breaking out of Bordeaux Jail March 7, while awaiting extradition to the U.S., where he faces narcotics charges.

The federal government has offered a reward of $15,000 for information leading to his capture.

Rivard is 40 years old, five feet six inches tall, weighs 155 pounds and has brown hair and brown eyes.

had been investigated in the currency robbery and more would be.

The chief said the situation would naturally disturb the public but would not destroy the image and reputation the force had built up since it was rocked by scandals that resulted in a royal commission hearing in 1964. The then chief Walter Mulligan left the force before that hearing was over.

Chief Booth would give no further details of the internal investigation.

"We do not know up to this day if Hogue had any part in the holdup. I don't want to give out anything that would jeopardize our position in connection with our investigation."

WORE UNIFORM

In the February theft an attendant let three men walk into the warehouse because one of them wore a CPR policeman's uniform.

The men escaped with three heavy boxes of bills—all with three half-inch holes in them—in a station wagon which contained a fourth man.

ARMED HOLDUP

In the bank holdup three masked men, armed with pistols, escaped with $11,000 after making the staff and customers

Rezoning Sought For Apartment Overlooking Gorge

Preliminary drawings have been completed for a three-story, 35-suite apartment building in Victoria West overlooking the Gorge and an application for rezoning has been submitted to City Hall.

The application, which asks a change from two-family to multiple-dwelling status, states that the building, which will face the Gorge and Selkirk Water, will take advantage of all the natural beauty the area offers.

FOR OWNERS: Acting on behalf of the owners of the property on Catherine Street, Mrs. Violet Warren and Sons, is the firm of Schulze & Hoel, architects and engineers. In order to retain as much "private home" atmosphere as possible there will be several entrances to the apartment block. Over-all cost is expected to be in the neighborhood of $300,000.

TUG FACILITIES

The letter points out that anchorage facilities for tugs to the northwest of the property will be moved to a nearby commercial zone after the waterfront has been dredged.

Supply Ship Being Outfitted

The recently-launched Arctic supply ship, Frank M. Broderick is undergoing outfitting work at Yarrow.

Launched earlier this month, the vessel will be turned over to its owners May 23.

The vessel is owned by Northern Transportation, a crown corporation.

It will serve isolated villages and RCMP outposts along the Arctic Ocean.

It will cost about $400,000 to equip the Straits Logger, Yarrow's general manager John Wallace said Thursday.

The 370-foot barge was seriously damaged when it ran aground last week.

Ingrown Hairs Irked People Long Before Electric Razors

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Doctor: My husband suffers from ingrown facial hairs. Does using an electric razor cause this?—MRS. R.F.

No, because ingrown hairs bothered people long before the electric razor was invented. In fact, in some cases and under some circumstances, an electric razor helps the problem. Other times not.

Hair (or whiskers) grow from a bud or root, lying below the surface of the skin. Sometimes the hair may grow straight out, but mostly it grows at an angle.

Now let's see what happens when we cut the hair off short, or shave. If the hair or whisker grows normally, it just extends above the surface of the skin and becomes part of the beard.

DIFFERENT ANGLE

But suppose that instead of growing out the usual way, it is aimed at a slightly different angle. Instead of growing through its usual channel, it hits the under side of the skin and can't puncture a hole through which to grow. The hair keeps on growing but it can't get out. So it then tends to curl into a ball. That's an ingrown hair. It festers and becomes sore and is a thorough nuisance.

An ingrown hair isn't necessarily confined to shavers or to men. A hair may be pulled out, or may be broken off below the surface of the skin. When it starts to grow, it can "stub its toe," so to speak. It may get trapped below the skin, and then have to curl up as it grows.

Exactly why this happens to some people and not to others is not entirely understood. Maybe the angle of growth is important. Maybe the skin texture is too tough. Maybe the hair is naturally curly.

WITH THE GRAIN

But shaving too close certainly can be a factor. If the stub of the hair, after a shave, remains at or above the skin surface, it will just grow out normally.

From experience, we also know that shaving "with the grain" is helpful. The real reason for this may be that we can't shave quite so close.

In your husband's case, he might—I said might—have better luck with some other kind of razor. It's worth a try. He also should shave with the grain.

Sometimes, of course, the grain goes in many directions. And above all, he should not shave too close. Shaving twice a day, but lightly, is preferable to shaving too close and getting ingrown hairs.

Finally, some disorder of the hair follicle can be involved. The advice of a skin specialist, may be the best answer.

Dear Dr. Molner: What makes me pass blood every time my bowels move? I was constipated about two months ago and that is when it began. Could it be hemorrhoids, fistula or cancer? It hurts almost all of the time, but not too badly.—Mrs. C.B.

The likely cause would be hemorrhoids or a fissure, but it could be cancer. Whatever it is, the sooner the facts are determined by medical examination, the sooner you will be comfortable again. The trouble obviously isn't going to clear up by itself.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible for a man with only one testicle to become a father?—L.M.

Yes, certainly, provided it is normal.

Hees Aiming At Top Post

MONTREAL (CP) — George Hees will be a candidate for the Conservative party leadership, but he won't present himself publicly for the post until John Diefenbaker leaves it.

In the meantime, however, he plans a quiet, behind-the-scenes return to semi-active politics through work to maintain and strengthen the party's Quebec organization.

Highly-informed sources close to the former trade minister, now president of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges, said Thursday Mr. Hees decided on this course following "tremendous" pressure on him to return to the party and seek the leadership.

GRASS ROOTS
The sources said the pressure, in the form of letters, telephone calls and personal visits, came primarily from grass roots elements within the party, the level at which Mr. Hees always enjoyed his main popularity.

But a number of higher-ranking Conservatives, including even some members of Parliament, publicly supporting Mr. Diefenbaker at the present moment, also have approached him, informants said.

U.S. Believed Close To Korean-Type War

LONDON (UPI)—The influential Times of London said Thursday the United States "is obviously on the brink of a Korean-type war in South Viet Nam."

In a dispatch from Washington, the newspaper said: "The dispositions of troops, aircraft and ships have been planned and only the final orders from the president are awaited."

"It is quite possible that the president's orders or preliminary orders have already been given."

NOT ADVISERS

The British newspaper said dispatch of American troops to Okinawa, a forward supply base for Viet Nam, has been reported and that the American garrison in South Viet Nam has been increased from about 20,000 to about 30,000 men "of which about 8,000 are Marines who do not pretend to be advisers."

The Times cited reports that American Marine strength in South Viet Nam may be increased to a full division.

Close Ranks China Urged By Russian

MOSCOW (Reuters)—A Soviet Communist leader Thursday called on Peking to co-operate with Russia in united action "against the aggressive forces of imperialism."

In a keynote speech at the Kremlin, Pyotr Demichev, the Soviet Communist party's chief spokesman on ideology, also served warning that peaceful coexistence would not stop Russia from helping national liberation movements.

ALLY IN DEFENCE
He said Russia regarded Communist China as its ally in defence of socialist countries against imperialist aggression, but improvement of Sino-Soviet relations "does not depend only on us."

Demichev's call was the first open appeal to Peking by a Soviet leader for closer ties since the current Vietnamese crisis began in February.

He said Russia had taken "important steps" to improve relations with China.

Khrushchev's Goal

Russians Abandon Quit-Berlin Demand

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union strongly indicated Thursday it has abandoned former premier Khrushchev's long-range goal of ousting the Western Allies from West Berlin.

Despite recent tensions in the divided city, the Russians dropped insistence that the Western sector be "transformed into a free, demilitarized city."

A list of slogans published in advance of the May Day holiday contained no reference to West Berlin.

The list, usually more than 100 in number, varies only slightly in wording from year to year, depending on changes in nuances or substance of Soviet policy.

Khrushchev set the stage for the east-west test of nerves over Berlin in November, 1958, when he set a six-month deadline for the evacuation of Western troops from the city.

Political Ombudsmen

SOME OPPOSITION to having an office of ombudsman or protector of the public from bureaucratic injustice is to be expected from politicians. From the point of view of the elected representative, the ombudsman may be seen as invading a field where political advantage is at present to be reaped. With his eye on the next election, a member of Parliament can be understood if he prefers a system that brings constituents to him seeking the favor of his intervention.

But the question in the public mind must be whether this time-honored way of handling complaints is either equitable or efficient.

In connection with the government's intention to have a royal commission inquiry into the desirability of having an ombudsman at the federal level, The Ottawa Journal not only holds that another long and costly study on this subject would be a waste of time and money, but opposes the establishment of such an office because it believes the existing methods of securing justice ought to be adequate.

There are, or should be, 265 ombudsmen in Canada now, the Journal says—"the $18,000-a-year elected members of Parliament who are supposed to see the weak protected from bureaucracy. Can't they handle complaints of citizens without authorizing an ombudsman's office which would breed flocks of deputy ombudsmen? Not only are there MPs but there are courts and provincial legislatures and municipal councils, all designed to protect the rights of the people. And Parliament has an officer now, the auditor-general, who keeps constant watch to see that the government employees stay within the ambit of Parliament's orders."

With the first proposition, that a royal commission would be an unnecessary expense, there are good grounds for agreement. Surely information on the subject is plentiful enough now for the government and then the legislators to make up their minds. An inquiry could be regarded as merely a delaying tactic, a sop to the ombudsman proponents.

But it cannot be so readily conceded that Canadians are or should be well protected from the errors and obduracy of federal officialdom as matters stand.

It is all very well to see each member of Parliament as an ombudsman. But there are at least two cogent reasons why an impartial and powerful officer would more fittingly fill this role. First, no one should have to feel obliged to a politician for what amounts to a favor. Second, not all MPs are of equal capability or energy, nor do all have equal opportunity of getting injustice rectified.

Better by far if complaints were handled with uniform efficiency, and as a matter of right, not indulgence.

Unhappy Memories

PERHAPS THE reluctance of France to participate in the efforts of the South East Asia Treaty Organization at this time is understandable in the light of that nation's experience in what was formerly French Indo-China.

The revolution which ended the colonial status of a country that included Annam, Tonking, Cambodia, Cochinchina and a part of Laos was costly to the French in terms of trade and the lives of its soldiers, but above all in prestige.

For years the French were plagued by wars and the fear of wars in the territory, and it was in 1954, after a series of humiliating defeats by the Communist armies that, finally, they concluded a cease-fire agreement on behalf of Viet Nam and the remainder of their Asian empire.

They had been fighting for eight years. It is permitted to appreciate, as the French might say, that the very name, Viet Nam, echoes with unhappy memories. France's defeat had been marked by a battle toll of 92,000 dead and missing. The war cost $8 billion, financed to the extent of $2.5 billion by the United States. In effect it had been a war between France and China, the latter providing massive aid to Ho Chi Minh's armies in weapons and war materials as well as men.

Now, with every indication that the war in South Viet Nam may be accelerated, if not extended, France wants no involvement.

The responsibility for stemming the Communist advance in Southeast Asia no longer affects French interests vitally, or directly.

For Britain, the United States, Australia and New Zealand, the situation very materially burdens their future. They are committed.

A Shocking Waste

EVERY YEAR SOME part of the North American continent finds itself engulfed in a flood disaster as warm spring sunshine melts a winter's snow and ice, and sends normally placid rivers and streams flowing over their banks creating havoc to life and property as they go.

Many parts of the Mississippi-Missouri basin in the U.S. middle west, and in the Winnipeg region of Manitoba are suffering badly this year, and as ever the magnitude of the damage depends on the strength of the man-made dikes.

It is now 17 years since the Fraser River had its last bad outpouring that wrecked dozens of communities in its valley and delta, but water experts say that there is nothing to stop a repetition if nature so ordains.

On the Fraser, of course, the terrain is such that dams erected in the higher reaches—beyond the spawning salmon limits—could remove much of the future flood danger lower down, but to date the governments—federal and provincial—have not decided who would bear the costs and so nothing has been done.

In flatter parts of the North American continent where dams are not the answer to the spring flood threat, it is surprising that engineers and scientists have not come upon a better method of control than merely pinpointing danger areas for diking.

As all over the U.S. the water tables are dropping in the arid western states, and the country is faced with a serious water shortage in the near future, the loss of so much water in these spring freshets—apart from the damage it does—does not seem logical.

The natural gas industry, for instance, pumps its product back into underground storage when it is faced with a surplus. Is there any reason why the unwanted waters of the flooded rivers cannot be diverted underground for later use? Or do people still regard water as too cheap a resource to justify such expenditure?

If so the forthcoming shortage may force them to change their options.

Washington Calling

Doubts About Bombing Policy

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WITH the bombing of North Viet Nam by U.S. Air Force planes in the third month and no sign of reaction from Hanoi, skeptics are beginning to ask how far this tactic will finally go and what, if any, results can be expected.

It was too absurd, say defenders of the policy, to think response could come after only two and a half months. As bridges and military installations are bombed the North is hurrying, according to spokesmen at the two-day briefing here in Washington the other day for editors and commentators from around the country. And the hurt will grow as the air strikes continue.

But doubts as to the ultimate objective persist. Critics of the bombing policy on the left, many of them with wide knowledge of Asia, suspect that the real goal is not North Viet Nam but Red China and China's nuclear potential. Cycles on the right go so far as to say in private that the President's John Hopkins speech was a propaganda exercise intended to calm the doves while the war goes on at the same pace.

Critics to one side, the practical question is whether and at what point bombing can undermine the will of a people to resist. Bombing of population centres is not now contemplated. It is recognized by spokesmen for the Vietnamese that hitting the industrial complex around Hanoi could stiffen resistance. Official appraisal of the results of Second World War bombing underscores this belief. In his book, "Germany's Underground," published in 1947, Allen Dulles, former head of the CIA who spent the war in Britain, is quoted as concluding that the wholesale bombing of cities did little to shorten the war. After the bombing of Hamburg in the summer of 1943, which caused the first fire storm in military history and took from 60,000 to 100,000 lives, Dulles said he mistakenly believed more of this would bring an early German collapse.

"Some months later I came to the conclusion that I was wrong," he wrote. "German morale not only withstood the bombing of cities but seemed to stiffen under it. Instead of..."

gaining recruits the anti-Nazi lost recruits..."

The official United States Strategic Bombing Survey carried out by distinguished civilians reached a similar verdict. Mass bombing lowered psychological morale but authoritarian controls remained intact and repression and coercion maintained a "treadmill sort of war production." Bombing of transportation and industrial sites prepared the way for the invasion of Germany and an end to the war. But that soldiers on the ground had to invade and conquer the enemy nation.

Adequate for Task

The Chinese Navy

By EDWARD NEELAN from Hong Kong

COMMUNIST CHINA'S navy is the most deceptive fleet afloat. Inferred at because of its lack of conventional equipment, the Chinese fleet performs adequately the job it sets out to do.

Western intelligence experts admit that with Red China's improving industrial base, a relatively strong navy is possible in the future.

This relative strength would be greatly boosted if Peking should decide to concentrate its rocket development on a Polaris type nuclear delivery system. There has been speculation that this is the case.

I have seen the Communist Chinese navy at work on three different occasions in the last few months:

1. On a recent trip to Portuguese Macao, a patrol vessel flying the Red Chinese flag intercepted our hydrofoil and kept it under observation for several hundred yards. This is usual practice.

2. Large junks in Hong Kong's outer harbor circling the U.S. aircraft carrier Ranger were taking photographs of the planes on the deck. The junks are ostensibly fishing vessels but are known to Hong Kong authorities as part of Peking's "navy."

3. From a forward outpost on Quarry Bay last week only 2,000 yards from Red China, I saw large navy junks entering the outer channel from Amoy Harbor. Nationalist Chinese have blocked large vessels from entering Amoy but "fishing" junks pass unhindered.

No one knows how many navy junks the Chinese have. However, their effectiveness is very high among the thousands of coastwise fishing and cargo junks all along the Southeast Asian coast.

Along South Viet Nam's coast alone there are 72,000 registered fishing junks.

While the U.S. Seventh Fleet has a big advantage in heavier craft, the Chinese have the edge along the coast because of the capability of living among the fishing junks just as Viet Cong guerrillas live among the peasants.

The Red Chinese are believed to have 26 and possibly 31 Russian W-class submarines, some of them built as recently as 1960 at Shanghai.

The London Institute for Strategic Studies puts Communist Chinese navy manpower at 125,000 men, including marines. The fleet has 230 vessels not counting the junks. The navy also has 500 land-based planes.

Communist China does not have an aircraft carrier. In addition to its submarines, the Chinese navy breaks down into a fleet of night destroyers, 14 frigate escorts, 150 torpedo boats, 25 submarine chasers, 60 gunboats, 26 minesweepers, 60 amphibious craft and 50 auxiliary ships.

So long as the Chinese navy sticks to its own waters—within sight of land—experts believe it can make a fair showing under favorable conditions.

In a full-scale battle on the open seas it would be no match for the U.S. Seventh Fleet.

Estimating the time it would take Red China to acquire Polaris-type rocket delivery systems for its still developing nuclear weapons is not possible. However, there is no reason to doubt that Peking could have a Polaris-type submarine fleet within 10 to 15 years.

(Copyright News Service)

This would seem to be more relevant to Viet Nam than the European experience. An Oriental people under authoritarian control and subjected to constant brain washing would have minimal influence on their government regardless of the punishment they might take from the air or however desperate they might feel.

An important consideration in the bombing tactic in North Viet Nam is the extent to which military installations are actually hit and put out of operation. In Laos, according to late reports, supply routes that have been repeatedly bombed in recent months are still in active use bringing in men and war material. The buildup has gone on despite bombing by American and Vietnamese planes to an extent that will permit at least a limited spring offensive such as has been launched at this time for many years.

The rainy season will soon begin in Southeast Asia. A potential cloud cover will make it more difficult to find and hit military targets. Thus another element of doubt is introduced in the bombing strategy theoretically designed to compel Hanoi to announce a willingness to call off support for the Viet Cong forces in the South.

The bombs dropped so far have been conventional, non-nuclear weapons. If the strategy is extended to Red China—there have been repeated warnings of "no privileged sanctuary"—nuclear weapons will be used. And that will be a test of quite another order.

Better for His Ordeal

By RICHARD JACKSON

Columnist Ottawa Bureau

POOR Walter Gordon, they said only some 22 months ago, it won't be over the same again for him or his government.

There he was, they all mumbled, one of the wonder boys of Prime Minister Pearson's talented team, part of a political image that stood clean and shining like a flawless marble statue.

And then suddenly, those same 22 months ago, it turned out that he really wasn't a wonder boy after all, and that statue of perfection was marred by the ugly cracks of fallibility.

It was too bad, they gloomed, that things had turned out that way, because hope had been so high, prospects so bright, and there was real drive and that sense of going places.

Walter Gordon had come to Parliament Hill as the very crystallization of the ideal of those who cry out for the highest calibre of men in public life.

There he was, a highly successful businessman, born a financial aristocrat with a stable he had parlayed to $19,000,000 by the time he made the big and self-sacrificial move from private to public enterprise.

He had come into politics as a sort of new style president of the board, trained for the Treasury, a real find, a sensational natural for finance minister.

But politics and business are different. In business, one phase of the enterprise can be less than successful, but if the organization as a whole remains a going concern, the stockholders are usually content.

In politics, any less-than-successful move is not measured in perspective with the whole.

He was the butt of almost every parliamentary "in" joke. And they shook their heads sadly and murmured in sympathy if not understanding; poor Walter, he'll never be the same. They were right, for a change. He wasn't.

Instead of cracking under the ridicule, he stood there, painfully smiling, and let them have their fun.

True, he cringed—who wouldn't? And in what must have been the agony of his embarrassment, even humiliation, of one who was supposed to have flown so high and had fallen so low, he went quietly to the prime minister and offered his resignation.

To his personal credit as a loyal friend, and perhaps to his credit as a man with exceptional foresight, the prime minister refused the resignation and sent Walter Gordon back to work to fashion other budgets.

He was still regarded by many, especially Opposition MPs, as something of a joke as a finance minister.

Monday's will be his third budget, and even before they hear him read it, those same Opposition MPs know it will be no joke. Nobody's laughing now. This budget promises to be a smashing success, and suddenly Walter Gordon, still quiet and unimpressed by praise as he was by ridicule, emerges as the kind of finance minister they expected him to be in his brief "hey wonder" days and better for his two-year ordeal.

It wasn't easy, as things turned out, to make the sudden transition from boss of the board where his every word had been taken as financial law, to the always-suspicious House of Commons and find himself subject to searching and even hostile cross-examination in an atmosphere where protest, disagreement, argument, contention and opposition are a way of business life and nobody ever takes anything for granted.

He took some terrible lumps.

Our Readers' Views

A REPORT on ambulance services compiled by the attorney-general's department of Ontario was recently presented to the Ontario legislature. The report suggests the implementation of constructive legislation to ensure an adequate standard of ambulance service throughout the province. Specifically, it urges the implementation of government subsidies; a uniform high level of training for ambulance personnel; a uniform standard of equipment and the licensing of ambulance operators. It suggests that subsidization could be effectively achieved through the Ontario Hospitalization Plan, an insurance not unlike B.C. Hospital Insurance.

The report is significant to the people of British Columbia in view of the provincial government's refusal to recognize its responsibility in the provision of adequate ambulance service.

In March, 1963, the Ambulance Employees Union, Local 873 (CUPE) submitted a brief to the minister of health outlining the then existing conditions in B.C.'s ambulance industry, together with proposals for ensuring adequate ambulance service in terms of location, distribution, availability and quality of service. The submission strongly recommended that ambulance service be regulated by the Public Utilities Commission or some similarly appropriate body. In an October, 1964, submission to the inter-municipal committee on ambulance service, Local 873 reiterated its proposals and extended them to include provincial subsidization through the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service.

It is indeed significant that the constructive proposals presented to the B.C. government by the ambulance employees themselves are the identical proposals put forth by the Ontario government as a result of an investigation initiated within the government.

In B.C., the minister of health has not even considered the constructive proposals submitted to him two years ago. It is time, either that Mr. Martin took some positive action or else exchanged portfolios with Mr. Gagliardi so that B.C. could have the finest health services in Canada as well as the finest highways.

Canadian Role

The war in Viet Nam is fast escalating into a war which may turn into World War III. If this present war cannot be stopped now, what hope would there be of preventing World War III from escalating into a nuclear war, resulting in the destruction of all mankind?

We have been depending for many years on the "balance of terror" (or fear of the use of atomic weapons) to maintain what "peace" we have. But this has only worked so long as only one side has pushed at one time to upset the "peace," and then only by not pushing too far. This time both sides are pushing increasingly hard. The result is that the "balance of terror" is fast losing its balance, and becoming only terror.

What can be done to prevent the Vietnamese war from spiralling the whole world down into the abyss of self-destruction? I propose three steps.

(1) Let Canada take the lead among the free nations of the world in revitalizing the United Nations, so that it will refill the power vacuum caused by the paralysis of the Assembly. This can be done by paying the peacekeeping dues that the Soviet Union, France, and other nations have refused to pay, with the result that the United States promised to challenge their voting rights in the United Nations Assembly. Let this money be paid as a "ransom," so that these defaulting nations will have full voting rights in the Assembly. This money will also give the United Nations a strong financial base for undertaking further peacekeeping duties.

(2) A special meeting of the United Nations Assembly should then be called as soon as possible to deal with the Vietnamese crisis.

(3) A special peace-keeping force should then be proposed for Viet Nam, such as in the Gaza Strip, to seal off the North Vietnamese from South Viet Nam. This might involve the resuscitation of the Geneva Committee, as Communist China is involved. These steps would require considerable time, while the crisis is right now.

This plan would not settle the Viet Cong struggle in South Viet Nam, which would remain to be dealt with in some other way. The immediate aim is to stop the escalation of the Viet Nam war into a greater conflict before it reaches the point of no return.

A second aim would be to enable the middle and smaller powers to revitalize the United Nations. This means not merely to get the Assembly going again, with its huge backlog of business. It means to refill the power vacuum produced by having no voting in the last sessions. It means gaining fresh prestige and moral power in dealing with world problems of war and peace. The United Nations Assembly is the one place where world opinion may be focused to oppose disintegration.

Viet Nam

It is difficult to reply to your correspondent "Anti-Aggression" as apparently any opinion contrary to U.S. action in Viet Nam is Communist propaganda. If that is so, many eminent writers including the columnist Walter Lippman—one of the best in the U.S.—are guilty of propagating such propaganda as Mr. Lippman has been critical of U.S. action in Viet Nam for months.

Mr. Lippman has pointed out on many occasions that the conflict there is an internal civil war and that there is little evidence that North Viet Nam has taken any direct action in that conflict.

"Anti-Aggression" cannot possibly believe that "ere was any freedom under Diem in South Viet Nam and that any freedom exists in Franco Spain, so-called Nationalist China and many other countries in Asia and South America which are classified as part of the free world. I lived for some 30 years in many of these countries and know something of life under these dictators where the wealth and the power is in the hands of a very minute minority.

Regarding South Viet Nam I would point out that the U.S. created the dictatorship of Diem and through the Geneva agreements clearly stipulated that supervised elections were to be held in South and North Viet Nam not later than July 20, 1956, Diem, with the support of the U.S., steadfastly refused to comply. These elections were to be supervised by the International Control Commission of which Canada was a member. At that time President Eisenhower admitted that 80 per cent of the people of South and North Viet Nam would have voted for unification under Ho Chi Minh.

We endorse the blessings of democracy but are not prepared to extend democracy to other countries where the free vote would not suit Western interests.

I am very opposed to Communism but I am equally opposed to the dictatorships which have the support of the U.S. as these dictatorships operate solely for the benefit and enrichment of the few. In my humble opinion such a policy can only lead to Communism in many of these countries.

Apparently President Johnson is controlled by his military advisers who are of course for the solution of "1 problems" overwhelming military force. Apparently they forget that the day of gunboat diplomacy has long passed.

Water Magnet for B.C. Growth

By IAN STREET

Covetous eyes to the south are fixed upon British Columbia's abundant water resources.

Premier Bennett, this time more forcefully than ever before, has again flatly rejected overtures from the U.S. for the export of our water.

The U.S., as I see it, smugly puts down these protests as the ground-work to a hard bargaining session that will make the Columbia treaty seem like a child's game.

But the premier is dead serious. I'm convinced, when he says that B.C. won't export its literally priceless heritage of fresh water.

Our stand adds up to just this: If there isn't water enough to supply the needs of the parched southwestern states then let the industry and people locate where the water is.

This province has much to offer. We have space, the natural resources, cheap power; we need population and the new industries to provide jobs for our people.

On a continent that is becoming increasingly poor in water resources B.C. is rich almost beyond imagining.

All the great civilizations of the past collapsed because they didn't have enough water, says the premier. He didn't actually come out and add that this great civilization of ours would do the same if we bargained away our birthright. But this was what he meant.

Indeed, if we are ever to hold claim to future greatness, the immense resources of life-giving water that we possess will play a major role.

Americans, on the other hand, are probably right in assuming that Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing is saying he doesn't want to export Canada's water now largely to strengthen our hand at the bargaining table.

At the Pacific Northwest Trade Association conference a couple of weeks ago in Portland, Mr. Laing said: "We would not even consider exporting any water until it was unmistakably shown it was surplus to Canada's requirements for all time."

That's a pretty tall order. How can Mr. Laing or anyone calculate the water needs of a country for all time?

His position is made clear in his following remarks: "Moreover," Mr. Laing added, "if Canadian waters are to be shared with our neighbors there must be a commensurate reverse flow of benefits towards the Canadian economy."

The Portland conference was discussing "Water, the ultimate resource."

Discussions centred mainly on the North American Water and Power Alliance, a visionary scheme conceived by California engineer Ralph Parsons. It would cost something like $100,000,000,000, take several decades to complete, reverse the flow of several rivers and bring deepsea ships across the Prairies by canal.

The primary goal, however, would be to transport water to the arid areas of the southern U.S. and Mexico. To do this B.C. valleys would be turned into huge reservoirs.

Not so far as B.C. is concerned, says Premier Bennett, Canada and the U.S. can do what they like with rivers originating in B.C. once they have crossed provincial boundaries.

But if they want our water let them come and enjoy it in B.C.

Debate Over China's Intentions Waxes Hot

Viet Nam: U.S. Thinkers Divided

By ARON MACKENZIE

What are China's objectives? Argument about this point lies near the heart of the debate now waxing hot in the United States on Viet Nam.

Supporters of President Johnson's policy—offering negotiations but also steadily tightening military pressure—see China as a latter-day Germany which must be defied now.

The voices calling for a softer American line tend to regard China as simply moving back into her old and logical role as the prime mover in Asia.

The official U.S. view was expressed by Defence Secretary McNamara when he said: "The choice is not simply whether to continue our efforts to keep South Viet Nam free and independent but, rather, whether to continue our struggle to halt Communist expansion in Asia."

One of the most articulate critics of American Viet Nam policy is Hans J. Morgenthau, professor at the University of Chicago and a political adviser to the state and defence departments.

He says the Truman doctrine of militarily containing communism, which worked well enough in Europe, was a dead loss when the late John Foster Dulles applied it to the Middle and Far East.

"The issue China poses is political and cultural predominance. The U.S. can no more contain Chinese influence in Asia by arming South Viet Nam and Thailand than China could contain American influence in the Western Hemisphere by arming, say, Nicaragua and Costa Rica."

There is no way the U.S. can win its war in Viet Nam, says Morgenthau, and the U.S. should face up to Chinese pre-eminence on the Asian mainland. He sees the invasion of Tibet as the sole exception in Chinese history to a pattern of letting smaller countries live in peace on the periphery.

The case for the "hawks"—the people who wholeheartedly support government policy in Viet Nam—is stated by columnist Joseph Alsop.

Alsop says Morgenthau "plays almost the same role among the modern ap-peasers that Geoffrey Dawson of the Times of London played in the Versailles-Hitler group in England before 1939."

Contrary to Morgenthau's view, says Alsop, a chief aspect of Chinese history "is the timelessness with which the Chinese people have resumed the task of conquest whenever an opportunity offered."

So, in his view, the sensible course is to continue an American role as a Pacific power, stick loyalty to allies and hope that new blood and time will soften the hard line of China's leaders.

BACKGROUND

The 'Volunteer' Situation

Next Move China's

By GORDON DONALDSON
From Washington

The fighting in Viet Nam has moved a step nearer a Koreanized war.

China's conditional offer of "volunteer" troops to North Viet Nam echoes the Chinese threat made in the fall of 1950 to send volunteers into Korea.

Then, as now, China said it would not stand "idly by" while its Communist neighbors were overrun.

Then, as now, the U.S. dismissed the Chinese threat and called the Chinese bluff.

China has not yet committed itself to intervention. The standing committee of the National People's Congress (the Chinese parliament) has ordered "full preparations" to send in troops and is, in effect mobilizing a giant anti-U.S. propaganda campaign.

But the troops or "volunteers" will only be sent if the U.S. escalates the war and if North Viet Nam wants them.

This is the same kind of offer made by the Soviet Union a few days earlier.

It is up to the Communist giants to decide what "escalation" means. Probably, it means a U.S. attack on Hanoi, which the U.S. is not yet ready for. The North Vietnamese government of Ho Chi Minh, then, is free to tell its big brothers to stay home.

North Koreans welcomed the Chinese as protectors. They had been ruled by Japanese for nearly 50 years.

Vietnamese, whether northern or southern, are traditionally opposed to China and Ho Chi Minh, having won his own war against the French in 1954, has no desire to be swallowed up.

Quotable Quotes

We often say how impressive power is. But I do not find it impressive. The guns and bombs, the rockets and warships, are all symbols of human failure. — President Johnson

Given the response of which our people are capable, we shall be ready to knock hell out of you. — Harold Wilson, addressing the Economic Club of New York

Humanists who don't understand the operation of their own automobile are under the delusion that they need to understand computers to use them. — Karl Kroeber, of the University of Wisconsin

You cannot be a socialist and send your son to Eton. — Mrs. Joyce Kops

Revolution is a home-grown product, and it could not be stamped out decisively and once and for all — supposing we had such delusions of grandeur — by stamping out Red China. — Walter Lippmann strengthens a country's will to resist.

The Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam, who are reinforced if not controlled by North Viet Nam, claim to control three-quarters of that country. U.S. officials on the spot admit they control at least half.

So North Viet Nam is not on the run and its so-called agents in the Viet Cong are within sight of victory.

Another vital difference between Korean and Vietnamese situations is the state of world opinion. In 1950, when the Russians had temporarily withdrawn from the UN Security Council, the U.S. obtained full UN backing for the Korean war.

The present U.S. charge of aggression against North Viet Nam is patently so thin the U.S. has not even laid it before the Security Council. Most of Asia is asking Washington to call off its bombing raids on North Viet Nam, and most European countries are either critical or silent.

These are the differences between Korea and Viet Nam.

Th great similarity is that now, as in 1950, the world is in danger of a blow up between the U.S. and China. This time Russia would certainly join in. Realists in the U.S. administration expect this.

The president's offer of "unconditional" discussions was not unconditional—for one thing the U.S. refuses to negotiate with the Viet Cong, which considers itself the true government of South Viet Nam.

Once the two big Communist powers are involved there may be, in fact, more hope of a truce.

But that is a long way off.

Mystery Weapon Killed Famous Clown

Starr

NEW YORK—A mysterious unidentified weapon has emerged as the key to the murder of circus clown Paul Jung. His widow angrily blamed hoodlums for the brutal slaying.

"It's that terrible New York City," said Mrs. Elsi Jung, his wife of 23 years. "It's like a jungle. There have been so many atrocities there in the past few years."

Mrs. Jung grieved quietly in her home at Tampa, Fla., where she and her husband operated a "fun factory" that produced many gimmicks for use in their acts to get laughs.

Police Inspector Leo Murphy, in charge of a task force of 50 detectives hunting for the killer, said that the weapon used to crush Jung's skull was something that the killer carried into the clown's hotel room.

He refused to identify the weapon. Insp. Murphy denied an earlier report that it was a flashlight. He said it is something "not normally found in a hotel room" and not connected with the circus.

Boat Stolen by Boy For Trip to U.S.

A Victoria teen-ager was arrested in Seattle after stealing a boat from here for a trip to the United States, Oak Bay magistrate's court was told Thursday.

John Franklin Smith, 16, of 2315 Fernwood, stole a 14-foot power boat from Oak Bay Marina April 4 with another boy and sailed her eastward to Anacortes, police said. They abandoned the $1,000 craft at Anacortes and later were arrested by Seattle police on another charge.

Smith, who pleaded guilty Thursday to theft over $50, was said to have told police he took the boat for "a trip down the States."

In city court, Smith also pleaded guilty to stealing a bicycle with another boy. The theft occurred the day before the boat was stolen.

Smith, who was transferred from juvenile court for both charges, was remanded until April 29 for sentence.

Preliminary hearing began in city court of a case in which two men are charged jointly with drug trafficking. They are Norman Bradley, 27, of Prince George, formerly of Victoria, and Robert Paul of Vancouver.

According to testimony Thursday from officers of Victoria RCMP detachment, the two men were riding in a taxi on Lady-smith Street on the evening of March 30 when stopped by Mounties in an unmarked police car.

Among certain articles in the taxi was a brown paper bag found to contain narcotics, an eye-dropper and a needle, police said.

The hearing was adjourned until April 26. Bail totalling $12,000 has been set for the two men.

Crown application to amend the wording of a charge in a break-in case was allowed by Magistrate William Ostler, who in adjourning the case Wednesday had said he wanted to think about the application overnight.

The case in question is one in which Mihaili Molnar and Janos Puukas, both of 1020 Catherine, are jointly charged with breaking and entering and possession over $50. They have pleaded not guilty.

Wednesday Crown prosecutor Peter Birkett asked to amend the wording of the break-in event so that the location of the alleged break-in would be changed from C. H. Wheaton Ltd., 880 Broughton, to the YMCA, same address.

This application was opposed by Robert Price, counsel for the two men, who said it would prejudice his clients' defence.

Thursday Magistrate Ostler said there was higher court authority to allow the wording to be changed.

Following the amendment to the charge, the case was adjourned until May 6.

A young man who pleaded guilty to hit-and-run was said to have told police: "I don't know why I didn't stay. I guess I was scared."

John Bruce MacDonald, 400 Craigflower, was fined $200 and had his licence suspended. He was fined an additional $25 for being an uninsured motorist, to which he also pleaded guilty.

Police said MacDonald's vehicle struck a parked car on the 500 block of Selkirk April 9. There were other occupants in his car and they were seen to have cases of beer with them, police added.

In another hit-and-run case involving a parked car, Phyllis Margaret Lang, 2124 Ridge, was fined $100 after pleading guilty.

She struck the car on a parking lot near Cook and Fort April 8 and did not get out of her car to see if any damage had been done, police said.

Attractive brunette Sharon Rose Dien, 1296 Tolmie, was fined $50 for shoplifting.

She was convicted at an earlier hearing of stealing a $7.98 pale blue slip from the Hudson's Bay Company.

In Saanich and Oak Bay courts, Gary Edward Vaughan, 741 Audley, pleaded guilty to three charges of indecent exposure.

Two of the incidents occurred on March 27 and one on April 16. In each case, court was told, Vaughan stopped his car, where he was sitting naked from the waist down, and allowed himself to be seen by girl passers-by ranging in age from eight to 15 years.

The March 27 incidents were divided between Oak Bay and Saanich. The Good Friday incident was in Oak Bay.

Vaughan was remanded until April 29 for psychiatric and presentence reports, and sentence.

In another indecent exposure case in Saanich court, Ronald J. Lahtinen, 3351 Quadra, received an 18-month suspended sentence. He had been convicted at an earlier hearing.

"This is a wretched compulsion," Magistrate Ostler commented, but added he was satisfied the case was one for probation.

A feud between neighbors brought them into court Thursday as complainant and defendant in a case of common assault.

Samuel John Patterson, 1503 Charlton, pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Neighbor Ralph Price said that on March 19 Patterson slapped his face and scratched his eye after saying Price's children were calling him names.

"I never laid a hand on the man," Patterson testified.

It was an "unseemly" matter, Magistrate Ostler said, in which there were only two testimonies, conflicting and uncorroborated. He dismissed the case.

Brave Man Rebuilds Life

Victim of Mailbox Bomb Refuses to Look Back in Anger

By DAVE STOCKAND
MONTREAL (CP)—Accident is the word used by Walter Leja's family to describe the thunderclap climax of raw and deliberate bomb terrorism.

It is said without irony. The rebuilding of a brave man's life—out of the wreckage that his act of courage cost him—taken precedence over looking back in futile anger.

Nearly two years have gone by since that Friday morning—May 17, 1963—when a dynamite time-bomb blew up in Walter Leja's hands while he was removing it from a mailbox in the Montreal suburb of Westmount.

The bomb was one of a number planted by le Front de libération Québecois (FLQ)—a terrorist group seeking by violence the establishment of an independent Quebec nation.

Walter Leja, Rocky to his friends, was doing his dangerous work on callout from the reserve army in which he was a sergeant-major. An overseas veteran of the Second World War, he had volunteered for the task and was tackling his third mailbox when death took a swipe at him.

"He loved the army," says his wife, "and he's still army through and through." To this day, Rocky Leja has no recollection of the blast that had his number on it.

Leja, wife and son, Ted

In his never-to-be-remembered horror, his chest and face were ravaged by the close-in force of the explosion and his left arm mangled so badly that it had to be amputated below the elbow.

For all its vicious mischief, the FLQ turned out to be a rag-tag outfit with a membership list almost as short as its bomb fuses. It was smashed, and its key members, most of them youthful, sent to prison for a variety of outrages including the Westmount bombings.

But the maiming of Rocky Leja remains a legacy of terrorism and the Leja family history has a cruel dividing line—before and after the "accident."

To describe meaningfully how he is making out now, it is important to know something of his past—before the shock and flash of explosion struck him speechless while shattering his body.

Rocky Leja was an extrovert, one of the most likable of men. He was a jack-of-many-trades who had at various times owned his own taxi, worked for the CNR, but who loved the army above all.

Around the house he was a do-it-yourself whiz. He had tremendous energy and a passion for the outdoors. Swimming, water-skiing, fishing—especially fishing—he loved them all.

He would take on any challenge. Once, just to show it could be done, he took a bottle of whiskey down with him in a diving suit and had a belt under water.

He is 43 now and, as his nickname implies, he retains the build of a powerful middle-weight. Despite a decided hunch to his walk, like a tough mauler on a rolling deck, he gets around the house at astounding speed.

Using a clipboard, with a pencil fitted to a hook at the end of what remains of his left arm, he can get simple messages down on paper. He is naturally right-handed but his right arm, while it has strength, has little co-ordination.

The regaining of speech comes harder—much harder—but even here determination is slowly winning out.

There is a staccato burst of no-nos when he disagrees, a stream of affirmatives when the right thing is said, and his family have become almost psychic at translating his wants into action.

Sometimes the right words come out. Sometimes they don't. And sometimes, in exasperation, he has to resort to the sounds and gestures that a small child might make in an effort to be understood.

These are the terrible times for him. For he is a man with an adult's memory—a man who knows and who understands.

"When he started on speech he didn't know how to say the letters of the alphabet," Mrs. Leja says.

"In the beginning progress was fast but now it seems slow to him and it gets him down."

"He was so very active before and he's not a patient man. He blows his top occasionally."

In a visitor's conversation with the Leja clan—Mrs. Leja, the Leja's strapping son Ted, a first-year student at McGill University, and Stanley Fryman, Mrs. Leja's brother—Rocky Leja proclaims the idea that he wants to try water-skiing again.

"Maybe in a few years," says Mrs. Leja. "Not this year."

U.S. Accepts New Aircraft

TORONTO (UPI)—The U.S. plane through full-scale service army Thursday took delivery of trials.

A twin-engine transport aircraft made in Canada especially for troop support in jungle warfare situations such as Viet Nam.

The 43-passenger aircraft, designated the DHC-3 Buffalo by De Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd., is a short-landing and takeoff model which can operate independently of conventional airfields.

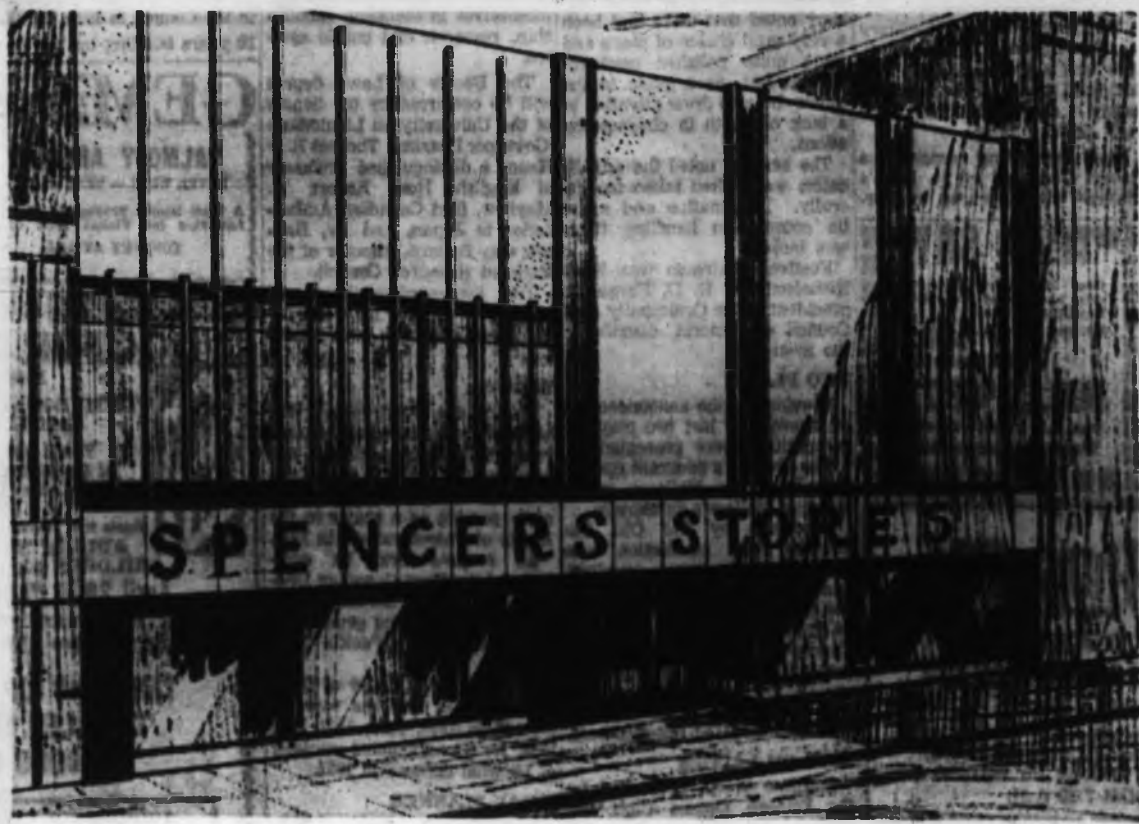

TROOP CARRIER

The plane, constructed to carry 35 battle-ready paratroops or 5½ tons of military payload, was turned over to the U.S. army by De Havilland officials in a ceremony at Downsview Airport.

The 11½-ton aircraft, which has a top flight speed of 280 miles an hour, can land and take off in rugged jungle clearings. Main tactical uses will be transport of artillery, troops, vehicles and supplies.

W. M. Hawkins, assistant secretary of the U.S. army, came here to receive the aircraft and flew to Washington in the new Buffalo Thursday afternoon. The U.S. army will put the Canadian

Queen Out on Town In Canadian Mink

LONDON (CP)—The Queen wore a mink jacket presented to her last October by Canadian newspaper correspondents when she went out on the town to celebrate her 39th birthday Wednesday night.

A spokesman said the Queen is "absolutely thrilled by the gift."

TORONTO (CP)—Several clergymen Thursday lined up with and against Rt. Rev. Ernest Howse, moderator of the United Church of Canada, who said Wednesday he does not believe in the physical resurrection of Christ.

Mr. Howse told a press conference that he does not believe in the physical resurrection, but he believes in Christ's spiritual resurrection. He said the information in the Bible is not exact enough, but when Christ appeared after his death it was in a different form.

Several ministers disagreed with Mr. Howse and said that belief in Christ's physical resurrection is basic to the Christian belief of life after death.

Rev. John Koulouras of the Greek Orthodox Church said Mr. Howse's statement is hardly worth answering.

Rev. Earl Kulbeck, editor of the Pentecostal Testimony, published by the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada, said he believes completely in the biblical version of the resurrection. It was "attested to by infallible facts in secular history."

Rev. John Lemkul, a Lutheran minister, said his church accepts without question the physical resurrection of Christ.

Magr. Basil Filovich of the Ukrainian Catholic Church said there is enough evidence in the Bible to back up the story of the resurrection.

Prof. Allan Farris of Knox College, Presbyterian spokesman, said Christ's body before resurrection was not the same as after. He said he is not sure what Mr. Howse meant by "physical resurrection."

Major Face-Lifting Planned By Big Downtown Store

An extensive face-lifting program, which will include a new facade over a frontage of 70 feet, will be started next week by Spencer Stores, 1420 Douglas Street.

A spokesman said the two-storey building would be improved inside and out, but the exterior frontage on Douglas will be completely renewed.

SHOW SPACE

First storey of the building will be mostly glass show-space, topped by a full-width sign with the inscription "Spencer Stores." Glass, stone, tile and wood will be used on the second storey in a distinctive vertical panel treatment. The work will take a month to complete.

The city special projects office, which is in charge of the paint-up plan and general beautification of the downtown area, has been consulted with regard to a color scheme, compatible with the general program.

Exterior of the store will be goodlit at night. Greenbank Designs is in charge of the outside work.

In Saskatoon

French Language Boycott Ends

REGINA (CP)—A school boycott started by 15 French-speaking parents when they withdrew 45 children from separate schools in Saskatoon two days before the Easter holidays appeared to be over Thursday after a meeting between their representatives and provincial officials.

Ernest Bourgault, spokesman for the parents, said at a press conference after the meeting he was satisfied the government would take action at "the very base of the problem and I will be sending my children back to school Monday."

He said he could see no "obstacles" to the other parents allowing their children to return.

The boycott started when the parents presented the province's 60-year-old law which states classroom instruction must be given in English.

At the meeting were Premier Ross Thatcher, Education Minister George Trapp and education department officials and representatives of three French organizations.

Missing Pilot Found Dead

HOLDFAST, Sask. (CP) — The body of pilot Peter Chodakowski of Saskatoon was found Wednesday beside the wreckage of a small private aircraft five miles southeast of here and 80 miles north of Regina.

The plane disappeared Sunday on a 140-mile flight from Regina to Saskatoon.

Standard Policy Doesn't Cover Car Pool Pals

By BOB PETHICK

Do you belong to a car pool — take neighborhood children to kindergarten or transport children to "away" ball games — with participants chipping in for gas?

Stop it!

At least until you have checked with your automobile insurance company.

In a recent statement in Vancouver, a spokesman for the H. A. Roberts Insurance Company said recent court decisions have defined car pools, taking turns at driving the neighborhood children with neighbors chipping in for gas, as "use of the car for compensation."

The statement warns this use is excluded by the statutory conditions of the standard automobile policy unless consent has been obtained from the motorist's insurance company. There could be no protection if an accident took place and a passenger sued.

MORE VULNERABLE

According to the company's information, the motorist is also more vulnerable in these circumstances, because it may be necessary for the passenger to prove only ordinary negligence where compensation is paid. A gratuitous passenger must prove gross negligence in order to recover in most provinces.

Motorists using their cars in this way should immediately check with their insurance agents. In most cases the policy can be endorsed to extend the coverage.

Toughest Race Saturday

The Gulf of Georgia predicted leg race—to be held Saturday—is the toughest power boat race in North America.

This is the opinion of Archie McBride, of the Capital City Yacht Club.

Mr. McBride went on, "The Americans have been trying to get in it for years. So far we've kept them out. We want to keep this a purely Canadian race."

The sixth annual Gulf of Georgia race will be run from Nanaimo to Jimmy Jones Island, off Cadboro Bay Saturday. The 45 contestants will leave Nanaimo between 8 a.m. and 11 a.m. and arrive at the finish line at about 5 p.m.

There are five check-points. Entrants must hand in their logs, predicting their course and the times they will arrive at check-points, to officials the night before the race.

Captains must maintain the same speed throughout the race. They have no way of knowing how close they come to arriving at check-points at the time they predicted, because race officials aboard confiscate all time pieces within five minutes of the beginning of the race.

An error costs the captain penalty points.

At the end of the race each ship's score will be tallied by two Vancouver stenographers at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, and the winner announced within an hour of the race's end.

The fisheries research board and the department of fisheries are moving onto the Cowichan River for separate salmon studies.

When these studies are added to the provincial fish and game branch unprecedented thorough investigations of trout and steelhead fishing the Cowichan will become one of the most-studied rivers in British Columbia.

The fisheries research board is carrying out a preliminary downstream sampling of salmon entering the Cowichan River, starting when the salmon are still in salt water and then following them into the estuary.

The department of fisheries will start an enumeration program for spring salmon, and later other species, and will build a counting tower along the banks of the river at a spot yet to be selected.

Officials point out that these are preliminary studies with more complete studies to follow on this river which is believed to contribute so heavily to lower Vancouver Island sports fishing catches.

Gordon Lamont reports Saanich Inlet blues are the biggest he has ever seen for this time of year, a few of them already in the 4½-pound class.

Finlayson Arm has been the big producer, but there have been so many tiny shrimp that the bite has been spotty.

At the weekend there was a bite of blues off Whiskey and Hatch Points which could indicate the blues are on the migration.

Portler Pass has been pretty good for blues on the outside, with a No. 2 silver and red Gibbs spoon, fished deep, doing the trick.

Claytons still have plenty of blues off Nanosue and Northwest Bay, but weather has kept a lot of boats off the water.

There are plenty of two and three-pound grise off Kelsey Bay.

Warm rains can't help but improve the trout fishing. Elk Lake has been producing to worm and bobber fishermen from the shore.

Council has been good with a troll or black and silver Flatfish getting them. Dougan and Quamichan Lake are still producing well and with warmer weather persimmoning the trout are now starting to take lures as well as bobber and worm.

Fly Fishermen in Marble Bay of Cowichan Lake have been taking three and four-pound cutthroats and rainbows on wet flies like the black gnat. Elsewhere in the lake, fishing with paste off the creek mouths, has been productive.

There has been some fair trout fishing just below the weir at the top end of the river and above Skutz Falls, where there was a hatch of May flies Easter weekend, has been good to brown trout fly fishermen. Trout are also being taken in the lower reaches where Somenos Creek enters the Cowichan.

A few fresh steelies are still being taken from the Cowichan.

Now is the time to hit the Chemainus. In the Nanaimo area Brannan and Quennell Lakes have been fair. Englishman and Big Quilicum Rivers are still giving up steelies and some trout near the mouths.

Mrs. Rob Roy McGregor hooked and landed a 14-pounder in the Oyster this week at the same spot we described Wednesday.

Rain has brought up the rivers and fresh steelhead are entering. Campbell and Quilicum are good bets and there is definitely a fresh run in the Salmon.

Trout fishing in the Campbell Lakes and the smaller Bayward Lakes has been scattered and spotty.

There was some good fishing with worm and bobber off Gus Siverton's Forbes Landing Lodge floats at the weekend. The mouth of Miller Creek on lower Campbell Lake has been good at times; Quilicum Lakes have been good in the evenings and at Upper Campbell they have been taking trout in the shallow bays in the narrows on worm or paste. McCraith Lake produced well at the weekend.

Big weekend events are Vancouver Island Shooting League rifle match at the Victoria Fish and Game Club's Esquimalt Lagoon range Sunday, starting at 10 a.m. and the Island Pointer Club's field dog trials at Cassidy Airport Saturday and Sunday.

Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association now has tickets on sale at Inlet boathouses and sporting goods stores for the Aug. 15 Handicapped Children's Derby, with main consolation prize a 1965 de luxe sedan.

Alan Lane Wins Chess

Alan Lane proved he could think quickly as well as smartly by winning the Victoria Chess Club's robot lightning tournament.

Lane came out on top over runner-up Martin Schultz and Edward Seedhouse, who finish second and third respectively.

The tournament was played at the club's new premises, 1184 Douglas St., room 203.

LONDON (AP) — The tough manager of Chelsea's pennant-contending English League soccer team dropped a bombshell Thursday night by suspending eight of his regulars from the team's final two games because they stayed out late.

The players admitted the breach of discipline but denied misbehaving.

KEY GAMES

Chelsea, the surprise of the English season which ends next week, is in third place only two points behind the leading team, Leeds United. The young team winds up its season with key matches against Burnley Saturday and Blackpool Monday.

Manager Tommy Docherty is considered a strict disciplinarian. The team was in training at Blackpool for the final games when Docherty made his announcement.

HIS PRINCIPLE

"I have prejudiced our championship chances because I believe in sticking by a principle," said Docherty.

"I'm sure Tommy has done the right thing and will have the fullest support of the board," said Joe Mears, chairman of the club and also chairman of the Football Association.

THE EIGHT

The eight suspended are: Terry Venables, Chelsea captain and England inside-forward; Barry Bridges, centre-forward for England; Eddie McCreadie, Scotland's left back; John Hollins, England under-23 halfback; Bert Murray, England under-23 winger; Marvin Hinton, fullback; George Graham, Scottish under-23 inside-forward; Joe Fashione, a forward who played on a junior Scotland team.

Soccer Chief Quits

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Harry Pulles quit Wednesday as president of the Okanagan Valley Soccer League, blaming players and managers for quarreling among themselves and heaping abuse on him.

He said the clubs do as they please, ignoring rules and regulations. Most managers are not controlling their teams, he said.

"When I accepted this post I expected sportsmanship and a spirit to play good and clean soccer."

"I don't think I can be talked into accepting the post again."

The league has teams from Kamloops, North Kamloops, Vernon, Penticton, Kelowna and Revelstoke.

McNeill Picks Shamrocks to Win

Coach Jim McNeill of Victoria Shamrocks predicted Thursday that good goaltending, a solid defence and rabbit-quick forwards should send his team to the top of the Inter-City Lacrosse League this season.

McNeill believes the Shamrocks have improved with the addition of five players from Nanaimo, making up for the loss of four or five older players.

MAIN OPPOSITION

The new Victoria coach, who takes over from Don Ashbee, indicated that defending Mann Cup champion Vancouver Carlings would give the Shamrocks as much trouble as any team.

McNeill said that newly-formed Coquitlam Adanacs are an unknown quantity at this time, and that New Westminster O'Keefe's may be weaker with the loss of key veterans to Coquitlam.

STILL NO FLOOR

McNeill has had the Shamrocks working out three times a week in the gymnasium for the league opener next Wednesday at Memorial Arena.

The Shamrocks hope to take to the arena floor Monday following the removal of the ice. Victoria Maple Leafs have delayed proceedings by staying in the Western Hockey League finals.

NANAIMO LINE

For the opening game, McNeill will go with an "All Nanaimo Line" against New Westminster.

Terry Davis, scoring champion last time around, will pivot Larry Clarkson and Bill Russell, who combined for 113 goals last season at Nanaimo.

FOUR UNITS

McNeill has been working four forward units in the gym. Holdovers Bill Munroe, Ron Jay and Reg Foster have been working together, while another veteran, Tom Collett, has been working with rookies Nirmal Dillon and John Allen, up from junior ranks.

Another holdover, Jim Cunningham, has been working with juniors Lonnie Nestell and Ray Beach.

Two defenders—Barry Ashbee and Bill Gray—will miss the opening game of the season. Ashbee is involved in hockey playoffs with Hershey of the American League, while Gray is attending the University of British Columbia.

ON MAINLAND

Another pair, Jack Showers and goalkeeper Skip Chapman, are also on the mainland, but will be in uniform next Wednesday.

Westminster Wins Shrine

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—New Westminster whipped Vancouver, 12-3, here Thursday night in the annual pre-season Shrine lacrosse exhibition.

Don Boyd was the hero of the night for New Westminster, scoring three goals, picking up two assists, killing penalties and playing the point on power plays.

The 2,000 fans also saw Vancouver goalie Norm Nestman drop one of his contact lenses in a goalmouth scuffle. He retired from the fray temporarily after a diligent search of the newly-painted floor produced the eyepiece.

Which whisky uses the water from a red granite burn?

Water, soft water, is one of the most important influences on the flavour of a whisky. And the water from a red granite stream is the softest and purest.

Next time you drink Ballantine's, you'll sense how the stream runs in the taste.

It is differences like this that prove—the more you know about Scotch, the more you like Ballantine's.

Wear Your Necktie

VANCOUVER — Two million dollars worth of rebuilt race-track is scheduled to be opened at Exhibition Park this afternoon, and if you're planning to attend, you'd better wear your necktie.

Ties and jackets are now required in the new 400-seat clubhouse area. There are signs posted that say so.

A glassed-in area contains terrace dining areas and girl waiters that will run bets for you. If you insist on investing your own money, there are 134 ticket wickets at your disposal.

The new grandstand will accommodate 5,000 people—a far cry from the old set-up where women customers were even money to tear their nylons, let alone find a seat.

The old grandstand area wasn't much different than the old clubhouse. It is said the difference could be described this way: "In the grandstand they just knock you down, and in the clubhouse they knock you down, and say 'excuse'."

The racetrack itself has been improved and now is a six and a half furlong strip with some of the narrowness taken out of the clubhouse turn. Yesterday however, it was in muddy condition and an off track is expected for today's inaugural eight-race card.

There are 32 jockeys on the grounds and close to 800 horses for the 89-day meet that winds up Sept. 13. After that the operation moves to the somewhat more modest Sandown Park at Sidney for a 16-day meeting that starts Sept. 18.

Johnny Dundee Dead

EAST ORANGE, N.J. (AP) —

Johnny Dundee, former world's featherweight champion, member of boxing's Hall of Fame and veteran of 321 pro fights, died Thursday.

Dundee had been in hospital since April 9, suffering from upper respiratory infections complicated by pneumonia. His age was listed both as 71 and 74.

The colorful boxer who fought all the big names from 126 pounds to 135 pounds over a 21-year period, was known for his expert ability to fight off the ring ropes.

Born Joseph Carrara, son of a fisherman in Shukla, Italy, Dundee was given his ring name by his former manager, Scotty Monteith of Dundee, Scotland.

He won 113, lost 31, fought 16 draws and had 159 no decision bouts. He knocked out 19 men and was stopped twice.

Minnesota Pucksters Pursue Allan Cup

NELSON (CP) — A team stacked with local talent from Warroad, a small lumbering town in northwestern Minnesota has designs on the Allan Cup, Canada's top senior hockey trophy.

Warroad Lakers, who grabbed the Western Canada Intermediate laurels in 1964, hope to become the first United States team to reign as Canada's senior champions.

They continue pursuit of that goal when they tackle Nelson Maple Leafs in the western final, a best-of-five series due to start here tonight. All games will be played here.

NINE HOMEBREWS

Nine homebrews backed by seven Canadian imports have brought Lakers past Marathon Mercuries and Transcona Larks to date.

Canadian winger Ron Farmland, with Winnipeg Maroons in their march to the Allan Cup in 1964, provided the scoring punch with nine goals. The nine Warroad boys from the 1,550-resident community chipped in with 17 tallies.

CAME SIXTH

Six Lakers were members of the U.S. national team which finished sixth in the world tournament in Tampere, Finland.

Other Canadian names on the Warroad list are Bill Juzda, 44-year-old defenceman who starred a dozen years and more ago with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National League; Murray Ramsay, 30-year-old centre from Winnipeg who is team captain; Bill Matthews, 31-year-old defenceman from Rainy River, Ont.; and Allie Reynard, 26-year-old goaltender from Kenora, Ont.

the 9.8 hp Merc 110 fishing motor with competitors' weed-catchers

The Merc 110, and the 2.9, 6 and 20 hp fishing Mercs, all have smooth, slanted one-piece housing that glides up and over submerged obstacles. There's no protruding gear-case to damage by impact, or catch weeds that cause overheated engines or fouled props.

Merc's exclusive Jet-Prop exhaust improves engine breathing, increases thrust and reduces underwater drag. Fumes and noise are buried far behind the boat. Mercs have no shear pins to fail... a live-rubber safety clutch protects the prop on impact. All Mercs have full gear-shift... forward, neutral, reverse.

Merc's tilted powerhead and internal bleed system eliminates misfiring and spark plug fouling. Fixed-jet carburetors need no adjustment, let you go further, faster, on less fuel.

Pearson-Johnson Talk

'We Had an Argument... He Certainly Wasn't Mad'

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday that when he met President Johnson earlier this month "we had an argument, of course" but "when I left him he certainly wasn't mad."

This was Mr. Pearson's first reference to an argument during his two-hour visit with the president at Camp David, Md. The talks were held a day after the prime minister told a Philadelphia audience that the U.S. might take a "pause" in its bombing of North Viet Nam "at the right time."

Newspaper reports from the United States have said that Mr. Johnson "resented" or was "angry" over Mr. Pearson's speech.

'FRIENDSHIP'
Mr. Pearson didn't say what the argument was about. He said a press conference it was a "sign of friendship."

Not all the talks involved Viet Nam, he said, and those that did were centred largely around the purposes behind U.S. policy in the Far East. He said his Philadelphia speech was carefully drafted with emphasis on "the right time."

"I didn't say stop fighting and hope the other people stop tomorrow."

Blood Bid Short

The two-day Red Cross blood donor clinic, held Wednesday and Thursday, received 494 pints of blood, far short of the 700 pints officials hoped for.

The clinic drew 200 pints at Red Cross House on Fort Street Wednesday.

AT DOCKYARD
Thursday the mobile blood clinic visited HMC Dockyard and set up in the gymnasium of HMCS Venture.

According to F. D. Nelson, co-ordinator of the program, dockyard personnel donated 294 pints of blood.

REPEATED DONATIONS
Many of the donors from the dockyard had made repeated donations through the years. Making his 50th gift was Thomas L. Dale of 973 Goldstream.

THIRTIETH TIME
Becoming donors for the 30th time were J. A. Valentine, 622 Head; Thomas G. Dabell, 848 Bank, and Peter Smart, 1500 Cedar Glen.

Qualifying as 20-pintners were: William G. Packford, 2324 Shelbourne; George Conway, 46 Maddock; John Fish, 2201 Central; Reginald Pugh, 1550 Bay; Peter O'Connor, 1315 Simsbury; Harry Mann, 3065 Newton; Wilson Forrest, 964 Lyall and George Hunter, 2725 Shelbourne.

Missing Pilot Still Sought

FORT NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Seven air force planes continued to search Thursday for a Piper Tri-Pacer plane and its pilot, M. Sgt. Kenneth Keen of a United States air force base in Alaska, missing since Monday on a flight from Fort Nelson to Watson Lake, Y.T.

Low cloud and snow in the Fort Nelson area Thursday hindered the search, but aircraft flew down the Smith, Liard, and the Tread Rivers in the vicinity of the Alaska Highway and along the highway itself, which Keen had reported he would follow on a visual flight path.

Press Barred From Carrier

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The U.S. attack carrier Bon Homme Richard left his southern California port Wednesday but the navy barred press representatives from the sailing.

World Federalists Now Include 63 MPs

By IAN ARBOL

Sixty-three members of Parliament, including two cabinet ministers are now members of the World Federalists of Canada.

National president Prof. C. S. Burchill of Royal Roads, said among the parliamentarians who are members are Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Leung and Agriculture Minister Harry Hays. In addition, a government liaison committee has been set up by the regular Ottawa branch to work closely with the parliamentary association as a research group, he said.

Island MPs who are members are George Chatterton (PC—Esquimalt-Saanich) and Colin Cameron (NDP—Nanaimo).

Dr. Harvey Richardson, a scientific officer at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, was elected president of the Victoria branch this week.

Elected vice-president at the annual meeting in St. John Ambulance Hall was Ranjit Azad. Secretary is C. K. Morrison and treasurer, Lt.-Cmdr. B. W. Fairweather.

FURTHER MEANS

Past president Dr. Austin Wright of Deep Cove told the meeting he saw in the idea of a Commonwealth Parliamentary Assembly a further means through which the federalist ideal of world peace through law might be achieved.

Tennis Dream Fulfilled

By CHARLES LA VERTU
A Victoria High School teacher will see a four-year dream come true this summer.

Boldness Needed In B.C.

Vancouver needs not one but half a dozen great new downtown skyscrapers, says Premier Bennett.

The commercial and industrial centre of the province needs "bold leadership and bold policies" if it is to match up to the current boom in B.C., the premier said.

ONLY BEGINNING

He said B.C. is now the centre of the greatest expansion in North American history and this is only the beginning.

Government plans for a sky scraper on the downtown block north of Vancouver's courthouse will give a great lift to the entire downtown area, the premier said.

'UNDULY ALARMED'

Mayor Rathie has been "unduly alarmed" by the possible loss of tax dollars to the city and unfair competition for private enterprise, said Mr. Bennett.

"The government's position on this is very clear," the premier said.

"When we get into the commercial area of operations we will pay full local taxes. For government offices, of course, we will pay the usual grant of 15 mills in lieu of taxes."

Tightest Restrictions

Twin Towers to Rise Near Oak Bay, Fort

Plans for a twin-tower, 13-storey high-rise apartment building on four acres near the intersection of Oak Bay Avenue and Fort Street are still under study by the city's engineering staff.

Officials were uncertain Wednesday just when the plans would be released. Nothing would be done on the property until the release was given, they said.

ACCESS ON BELMONT

The building will be located between Terrace and Belmont avenues with access on Belmont. It is hedged with some of the tightest restrictions ever imposed on apartment construction in the city, and in order to ensure that these are followed, the city has retained a portion of the property.

Educational Film In Oak Bay

The film Village Beneath the Sea will be shown at 8 p.m. today and Saturday in the Oak Bay Junior High School auditorium.

This film is sponsored by the adult education division of the Greater Victoria school board as part of the World Around Us series.

Harry Pederson, who has taken many films for Walt Disney Productions, Time and Life magazines and the U.S. government is the narrator.

Tickets will be available at the door.

After years of planning and studying by Gordon Hartley a pilot program to promote tennis playing by Victoria youngsters will begin June 28 on three new courts in Beacon Hill Park, under his direction.

TEN TO 16

Mr. Hartley, an English teacher at Victoria High School, said the program would be for boys and girls aged 10 to 16 but, for the first season, limited to Victoria city children.

Mr. Hartley said that during the 20 years he had worked with the parks department summer recreation program, he felt the need for a good tennis program.

TENNIS ORPHAN

"Most sports are well-organized on the junior level, for example little league baseball, rugby, lacrosse, soccer and swimming, but tennis has always been the orphan."

"We have nearly year-round tennis in Victoria and it is neglected as an organized sport," he said.

AUSTRALIAN PLAN

Mr. Hartley explained the program would be based on that in Australia, where it is used on a massive scale.

"I have all the literature and have attended two clinics on this program," he said.

SPONSORED BY CITY

The Victoria program, which will last six weeks and end with a week-long tournament, is sponsored by the City of Victoria and is sanctioned by the B.C. Lawn Tennis Association.

"The program will be available to Victoria city children with the idea of expanding to include all Greater Victoria children in the near future," said Mr. Hartley.

Registration will be from May 18 to June 15 and cost is $1.

"The children must go to the parks department in city hall to sign up," Mr. Hartley said.

Other instructors with Mr. Hartley are John Secord and Carol Gibson.

"We are interested in bringing out a big mass of tennis players; we aren't interested in developing stars, but getting the children interested in tennis from a recreational point of view," Mr. Hartley added.

during the week of Aug. 9 will be donated by the T. Eaton Company.

Other instructors with Mr. Hartley are John Secord and Carol Gibson.

"We are interested in bringing out a big mass of tennis players; we aren't interested in developing stars, but getting the children interested in tennis from a recreational point of view," Mr. Hartley added.

To Prevent Delinquency

Group Therapy Suggested Here

A permanent therapy project to curb juvenile delinquency in Greater Victoria was suggested by a social worker Thursday night.

Gerald K. Webb outlined the plan to a standing-room crowd of more than 100 at the annual meeting of the Family and Children's Service.

At the same time, the service's executive director Gordon R. Wright, called for a nationally-coordinated program to solve Canada's growing problem of family crisis and breakdown.

Mr. Wright also listed four needed community services which should be provided in Greater Victoria:

- An increased marriage counselling service.

- A supervised homemaker service to help prevent family breakdown.

- Development of subsidized day-care services to provide decent living conditions for virtually neglected children.

● Development of a delinquency - prevention and delinquency-treatment program for adolescents and pre-adolescents.

The fourth point follows the suggestion by Mr. Webb for a permanent therapy project.

Mr. Webb is the social worker behind the Service's Project Six, a 20-month program of group therapy with six boys, aged 11 to 13, who appeared headed for a delinquent future.

Exact results of the project won't be known for five to 10 years, Mr. Webb explained, "but we do know they have been able to change, to move onto better levels of functioning."

Moreover, "we know these kids have been provided with some means of better combatting stresses and strains of adolescence, of dealing with their problems, of understanding themselves and their families, and we helped families understand their teenagers."

Consequently, "we can expect a much lower potential for delinquency," Mr. Webb told the group.

He said the project attempted "not to deal with delinquency, but to prevent its occurrence."

The need for such prevention service is great, Mr. Webb continued, and Project Six, if developed on a larger and more permanent scale, could help achieve this.

"Now is the time for the community to consider whether or not they want this kind of program, this kind of service. It can help."

The problem of family crisis and breakdown as explained by Mr. Wright, "is greater by far than can be met by any one community or even any one provincial government."

He maintains the only effective solution to the crisis is a

She said it is important to urge the provincial government to consider the establishment of a child care training program, so that people with aptitude can receive training in a practical setting.

"It is not enough to have natural concerns and a desire to help disturbed children. It is essential to have knowledge and training before attempting to handle them."

The chairman said there is a need in B.C. for a training program for persons interested in becoming "house-parents" for group living homes, and half-way houses for delinquent and pre-delinquent children.

Memorial Pen Stolen

Title of meanest thief, according to city hall staff, should go to the person who plucked the pen from the mayor's desk.

The pen was part of an elaborate two-pen set presented to the city by Mrs. Arthur Dowell in memory of her husband who, at the time of his death last year, was the city's senior alderman.

The set adorned the mayor's desk and was used by him on formal occasions. It also was used by distinguished visitors to sign the city's guest book.

The set is put away except for short periods before and after meetings of city council. It must have been during one of these short intervals, say city officials, that the pen was pilfered.

Only one of the two was taken, which leads to the belief that the thief was an unscrupulous non-violent insider.

Visitors are constantly moving through city hall, including the council chamber. The pen will be replaced.

Unwed-Mother Picture Changing

'Nice Girl' Is One in Trouble

By TONY DELLON-DAVIS

The unmarried mother of today is likely to be "the nice girl next door."

May Gross, chairman of a B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation committee on child welfare, said Thursday, "the picture of unmarried mothers is changing."

At the federation convention in Victoria she said, "Ten or 15 years ago the typical unmarried mother had some degree of hostility and resentment, and a damaged background."

"Today there are no social or economic boundaries. 'She is apt to be the nice girl next door.'"

The chairman said the Vancouver Protestant Children's Aid Society records 99 unmarried mothers came to them for aid in January, 70 in February and 90 in March.

"This is an alarming picture, and we need to consider seriously the place of the school in offering courses in 'effective living,' which would include biology and sex education."

The second "R" in education—writing—is becoming a lost art, and may die out completely.

Computer science is adding in the downfall of writing, Roy McLoughlin, education department curriculum consultant, said in Victoria Thursday, at the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation convention.

"Studies have shown that writing is becoming a lost art."

Information needed for computer programming must be printed.

The elimination of writing would solve one education problem.

Mr. McLoughlin said that problems arise when a child, who has barely learned how to print, has to learn to write. Without writing, they would just have to learn to print.

To Offset Fee Increase

Bursaries Will Aid Students Who Qualify

By GARY OAKES

University of Victoria will provide funds for qualified students to offset any fee increase, President Malcolm Taylor promised Thursday.

Dr. Taylor said "the whole problem of the university's budget is still under review" but added "no decision has yet been reached on the matter of a fee increase."

SCHOLARSHIP PLAN

At the same time the president announced a $10,000 university scholarship program to begin next term.

Dr. Taylor said if a fee raise is unavoidable the university will provide bursaries to "offset the increase for any qualified student whose financial resources are such that he could not meet the increase."

WON'T HAVE TO QUIT

This means a qualified student won't have to drop out because of lack of money.

The board wants every qualified B.C. student to attend university, Dr. Taylor said.

The president added: "Canada needs every trained person it can graduate."

MOST SYMPATHETIC

As a student who worked his way through university, Dr. Taylor said he is "most sympathetic" to the students' concern over fees.

"My personal concern for the welfare of students is such that I intend to give the matter of bursaries and scholarships first priority in the university's development."

STUDYING QUESTION

The boards of governors of University of Victoria, UBC and Simon Fraser are all studying the question of how much of the university budget should be borne by fees.

The scholarship program came under fire from Paul Williamson, president of the university's Alma Mater Society, who said a scholarship plan will "not alleviate a tuition fee increase."

ACADEMIC BASIS

"It's based on academic achievement and not financial need," he said.

Using a projected enrolment of 3,000, Mr. Williamson said if fees are increased $50, it will take $150,000 out of student pockets while the university returns only $10,000 in scholarships.

HARDLY JUSTIFIED

Mr. Williamson suggested the best way for the university to "clear up this controversy" is to announce there won't be an increase.

GET ON WITH FUND

"Then we can forget about that and get on with raising the $20,000,000" through the tri-universities capital fund.

Known as the president's scholarships, they will provide five $300 scholarships for high school graduates entering the university. Remainder of the $10,000 will be awarded in amounts up to $400 for university students continuing their studies here. Both categories are based on achievement.

Union Aid Proposed

B.C. Federation of Labor president E. T. Staley of Victoria says a costly bursary plan may be put into effect by the federation.

He said this would come as a result of withdrawal by the federation from the tri-universities capital fund.

Mr. Staley said the matter will be raised by the executive at the next convention of the B.C. Federation of Labor.

He said delegates will probably be asked to support an extensive program of granting bursaries to students who are sons of trades union members.

Mr. Staley announced Wednesday the federation was pulling out of the fund.

Still Supports Tri-U Fund

Labor Council Firm

Victoria Labor Council has not changed its stand about supporting the tri-universities capital fund, council secretary-treasurer A. W. Toome said Thursday.

Mr. Toome said B.C. Federation of Labor's withdrawal from the fund does not affect the council.

At the same time, fund chairman W. H. Armstrong criticized federation president E. T. Staley for his announcement that the federation "with not take any further part in this drive."

Mr. Armstrong said the withdrawal "could be understood as an attempt to enforce a change in (university financing) policy, with the children of the people of British Columbia as innocent bystanders."

NOT CONNECTED

The fund chairman quickly pointed out that the campaign has absolutely nothing to do with university financing policy.

Mr. Staley announced the withdrawal at a Victoria Labor Council meeting Wednesday.

SUPPORTED FUND

But Mr. Toome referred to a resolution passed by the council in late March which supported the fund and urged all unions to back the campaign.

"That motion has never been rescinded," he said.

CONGRESS POLICY

Moreover, Mr. Toome said the motion was applauded by a Canadian Labor Congress executive who told the council it is "congress policy to support educational programs."

And fund chairman Armstrong agreed with Mr. Toome, saying it is "my understanding that the Victoria Labor Council has not altered its favorable resolution . . . or in any way changed its original announced support."

NO DISCOURAGEMENT

Mr. Armstrong also believed "no labor official has ever discouraged any union member from supporting this campaign."

He said a withdrawal of support by unions "is not going to cause the immediate building and equipment needs for the education of children from all walks of life."

FINAL ANALYSIS

"Certainly the means of education of young people should, in the final analysis, be the decision of themselves and their parents," the chairman added.

CONCERTS FREE IN SQUARE

Three free summer concerts by the Victoria Symphony in Centennial Square were enthusiastically approved Thursday by city council.

Two of the concerts would be on Sunday — June 27 and July 25 — and the third on Labor Day, Sept. 6. In the second concert, HMCS Naden Band would take part, with a choir of about 100 voices added.

In order to finance the concerts, the society would seek help from the Canada Council, the Greater Victoria Celebrations Committee, individuals and businesses.

"This is the most desirable use the square could be put to—the very sort of thing we had in mind when it was contemplated," said Mayor Wilson.

Cancer Evidence Ignored

Many Smokers Drop Habit But Cigarette Sales Climb

While few people seriously believe there is no connection between smoking and lung cancer, cigarette sales are increasing this year says Victoria internist Dr. R. M. Lane.

"You can take the figures any way you like, from any country you like, and you cannot doubt there is a connection between lung cancer and smoking a lot of cigarettes over a long period of time."

"But while reports from health experts in Britain and United States caused a depression in cigarette sales early in 1964, sales of tobacco are now rising," said Dr. Lane.

MORE FACTS

"While there are fewer casual smokers, those who do smoke go through more packs a day."

He said lung cancer is not the only cause for concern to cigarette smokers.

"There is a heavy increase in death-rate among middle-aged smokers," he said.

Much of this increase in death-rate comes from a jump in the incidence of coronary thrombosis.

"This alone is enough for serious concern about smoking," he said.

Lane

He pointed out there is a great deal of lung cancer in Greater Victoria.

"Part of the reason may be the type of residents we have; there are many veterans here, many persons of British stock, who have smoked a great deal in their lives."

PANEL SPEAKERS

Dr. Lane will be a member of a doctors' panel which will discuss cancer and answer questions at the cancer forum Monday.

The free forum will be held in Central Junior high school, doors open at 7:30 p.m.

First on the program will be a showing of the 30-minute film on cancer, The Million Club.

CHAIRMAN

Other doctors on the panel are Dr. A. B. Nash, Dr. J. D. Haugh, Dr. J. M. W. Gibson, and Dr. M. J. Lynch.

Chairman of the forum is Dr. H. M. Edmondson, president of Victoria unit, Canadian Cancer Society, a co-sponsor.

Other sponsors: The Daily Colonist and Victoria Medical Association.

Empey-Edwards Vows

Bride Makes Attendants' Gowns

Easter flowers decorated St. John's Anglican Church for the ceremony uniting in marriage Bernice Margaret Edwards and Mr. William Gerald Empey.

Rev. F. W. Hayes officiated at the evening ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Edwards, 2883 Blackwood Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Empey, 2103 Stelly's Cross Road, Nanaimo. Mr. Kenneth Ansdell was organist and played Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring, during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father the bride chose a floor-length gown of peau de soie styled with a slightly belled skirt and featuring a detachable full train. Lace appliques enhanced the scalloped neckline and skirt. The bride's chapel length, butterfly net veil misted from a French organza rose headpiece. Yellow roses, white feathered carnations and stephanotis were in her bridal bouquet.

Miss Nancy Merton, maid of honor, and the Misses Diane Slater and Marilyn Taylor were joined alike in waist-length yellow crystal charm dresses which were made by the bride. Crystal charm roses and tulle en tone formed their headpieces which were designed by Mrs. Ernest Merton. The maid of honor carried a bouquet of white gladiolus centred with a yellow rose and the bridesmaids carried cascade bouquets of white gladiolus. They all wore pearl pendants, gift of the bride.

Mr. Ronald Empey was best man for his brother. Ushering were Mr. Brian Empey, groom's brother, and Mr. Geoffrey Amy.

White and yellow streamers decorated the Oddfellows' Hall for the reception which followed. Mr. Ernest Merton proposed the toast to the bride. A three-tiered cake, made by the bride's mother, centred the head table. Dancing to the music of Mr. Eric Paver and his group followed the reception.

For travelling to the B.C. mainland the bride wore a two-piece, blue-velvet suit and white accessories.

The newlyweds will make their home at 128 Menzies Street.

Clever pen and ink drawings of grass hockey paraphernalia will be part of the decoration in Genoa Bay Lodge this evening for the annual ball of the Cowichan Ladies' Grass Hockey Club. The artist is Mrs. Pat Clark.

Of course there will be masses of spring flowers, too, from the gardens in the valley which are equally as beautiful as those of Victoria.

Capt. and Mrs. P. Chaworth-Masters, she is president of the club, will be welcoming guests to the ball, the third put on by the Club.

The Philip Holmes and the Ralph Sykes will go up to the ball by boat and plan to stay the weekend there.

Others going up from here are Dr. and Mrs. M. J. W. Penn, Mr. and Mrs. D. Homer Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Michael McGrath, Mr. and Mrs. Carey Creech, Dr. and Mrs. Brian Allen, Dr. Guy Berwick, Mrs. Joan Holmes and Mr. Charles Hazzar.

From the Cowichan area will be Mr. and Mrs. O. Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. Brian Weld, Mr. and Mrs. John Hubbert, Mr. and Mrs. A. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. T. Mrs. Petrie and her late husband came here 52 years ago from St. Andrew's, Scotland.

Tea for Mrs. Taylor

Dean of Women at the University, Phoebe Noble was really proud of the Vikesettes winning the Canadian Junior Girls basketball championship.

The Vikesettes are the University team and Phoebe told me that it was highly debatable whether the girls would be allowed to compete (so near exams) so it was doubly rewarding that they had done so well.

Others were also talking about the team at the Faculty Women's Club of the University tea given for Mrs. Malcolm Taylor, wife of the University president. It was held at Uplands Golf Club lounge, such a pleasant spot overlooking the rolling greens.

In the receiving line with Mrs. Taylor who was in a silvery green dress and hat with gardenia corsage was Mrs. J. B. Clearhough, wife of the Chancellor of the University dressed in grey and silver, with an orchid corsage and Mrs. Wilfrid Johns, Club president. She was wearing a black silk suit with the most attractive white blouse, the ruffled collar and cuffs outlined in black lace. Her black straw hat had white straw braided around the crown.

Mrs. George Brand and Miss Jean Day, both members of the faculty, were both in pink. Mrs. Brand had on a soft pink check suit and lovely fluffy hat of pink roses and Miss Day's suit was bright pink and she had a pink flower atop her black straw pillbox.

Everytime you turned around you could see Mrs. Gordon Fields. It was her hat made entirely of large, brilliant red poppies.

Miss Ann Van der Voort who is at the University library had on a black hat, the crown of patent leather and the brim of straw. Mrs. Douglas Leechman was also in black, her hat of velvet. Mrs. Alisa Baker had on a pretty wine red suit.

U.S. Goes for U.K. Look

NEW YORK (AP) — Jennie Chilcott is one of Britain's more attractive exports and, looking at her, it is little wonder the demand here is high.

Jennie is a tall, slender model who typifies the "British look" that is important now in the fashion world.

"The Americans are going for the British look in girls, in clothes, in lots of things," she said. "And with this British look, they've sort of been yelping for British models to come over here."

Jennie arrived in New York last September and already is well established as a model in leading women's stores and for fashion designers bringing out new lines.

Aged 22, she wears her hair short and softly brushed, bangs falling almost to her eyes. Her makeup is pale.

Then, she explained, are elements of the British look — pale makeup, feminine hair style, a natural line to the clothes.

"It's a very young, sophisticated, casual look, a chic casualness, a casual elegance," she said.

Former residents of Sidney, their golden wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Dibnah of sary. They were honored at an $357 Linwood Avenue celebrated open house at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Q. H. Dibnah, 9075 Lochside Drive, Sidney. Following the reception a family dinner was held at the Princess Mary Restaurant.

Approximately 60 guests from Sidney, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria congratulated the couple in a setting of beautiful spring flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Dibnah cut their wedding cake following a toast offered by Mr. A. A. Cornack, Commissioner, Village of Sidney.

Mr. and Mrs. Dibnah were married in London, England, April 7, 1915, coming to Canada in 1919. They resided in Winnipeg prior to moving to British Columbia where they have lived for the past 16 years.

The Dibnah's three children, C. R. Dibnah of Victoria, Q. H. Dibnah of Sidney and Mrs. S. V. Woods of Vancouver were all on hand to help their parents celebrate this happy occasion. The youngest of the nine grandchildren, Brian Woods, aged six weeks took a most active part in all the festivities, posing for pictures in the arms of his grandmother.

Messages of congratulations were received from Prime Minister Pearson, His Honor Lieutenant Governor Pearkes, George Chatterton, M.P., Mr. Cornack and Police Chief G. T. Tappin of Winnipeg.

Send Books To Germany

Mrs. J. A. Brown reported at recent meeting of Esquimalt Chapter IOOE held at the home of Mrs. C. C. Cornelle that two hundred of books had been sent to Germany for service men.

Mrs. C. A. Dodimeade, regent, and Mrs. A. Hatch, standard bearer, reported on the recent annual provincial meeting in Vancouver.

Mrs. Cornelle spoke on the work done by the Chapter at Red Cross Lodge.

An attractive, hand-made Afghan, made by Mrs. T. G. Clarke, will be donated to a local nursing home on behalf of the Esquimalt Chapter.

Mrs. G. P. Clarke read an article entitled, What is Canada? A resume of the work done by the IOOE in assisting Commonwealth students in higher education was given by Mrs. A. W. Smith.

Mrs. M. H. Saar assisted Mrs. Cornelle in hostess duties following the meeting.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a divorced woman who is trying hard to raise my son to be a good citizen. He is 11 years old and I've been worried about him for quite some time.

Lately small amounts of money have been missing from the house. Last week $3 I had set aside for the sinner mysteriously disappeared. Yesterday I saw my son rummaging around in my purse. He took out a dollar bill and stuck it in his shoe. He did not know I passed the door just in time to see him.

I decided to tell him, about an hour later, that I had "lost" some money around the house and asked if he would help me look for it. I offered a 25c reward as an incentive. He helped me look for about 15 minutes then said, "You must have lost that money somewhere else."

I finally became exasperated and told him to look in his shoes because that's where I saw him put it. He broke into tears and said he didn't know why he did such terrible things.

Half an hour later he cut his finger while slicing some sandwich meat. I know he cut himself to get sympathy. Please tell me what is wrong with the boy and what to do about it. — ANXIOUS MOTHER.

Dear Mother: Children who steal do so because of deep-seated feelings of insecurity and frustration. Your son probably cut himself—not to get sympathy—but because he felt the need for punishment.

Get some outside help for this boy. Ask your family physician to direct you.

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing to ask if there is any way you can teach a person to be smart.

I am just average myself but I have a girl friend who is very brainy. She knows an awful lot of things. I would just love to be as wise as she is.

My younger sister is very clever, too. I would give anything if I could think of the things to say that she says. Please tell me how people can make themselves smarter. — ADMIRER OF BRAINS.

Dear Admirer: You use the words smart, brainy, wise and clever as if they all have the same meaning. They do not. A person can be shrewd, clever or quick-witted but this does not mean he is wise.

It is possible to have a head filled with information and still be stupid. Wisdom is more than mastering facts. Wisdom is knowing what to do with what you know, plus having the self-discipline to do it.

We are all limited by the intellectual machinery we inherit. You and I could never be Einstein no matter how hard we tried. We can, however, increase our knowledge by reading and listening. And if we practice whatever it is that we wish to excel in, we can do that job better than most people.

Spring Tea April 30

St. Martin's Afternoon Woman's Auxiliary will hold its annual spring tea and sale from 2 to 4:30 p.m., April 30, in the Parish Hall, Oled Avenue.

Mrs. K. Schilling will open the affair. Stalls for home cooking, plants and miscellaneous articles will be featured.

Grandsons Christened At Ganges

GANGES, B.C. — Two little grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Brown were principals in a christening ceremony conducted by Archdeacon G. H. Holmes on Easter Sunday afternoon in St. George's Anglican Church, Ganges.

The four-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jari Whist of Kamloops received the names Joel Robert. His godparents were Mr. Robert Galle, Vancouver, and his aunt, Fritz Hoeg, Oala, Norway.

Ross Patrick were the names bestowed upon the year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Black of Courtenay, whose godparents were his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jari Whist.

A family tea followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Rainbow Road.

Garden Notes

Lots for So Little

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRES

If there are any newcomers to gardening among my readers who haven't as yet experienced the joys and excitement of growing gladioli, I want to urge them with all the force at my command to get into the swim and blow themselves to at least a couple of dozen gladioli.

It isn't only that the gladioli is just about the easiest of all flowers to grow. My enthusiasm for gladioli stems, I think, from the fact that you get so much for so little, with a little 10-cent bulb developing into a majestic four-foot spike of glorious bloom which sends thrills of delight racing up and down your back just to look at it.

Glad bulbs are sold ordinarily in two ways: in mixtures or collections, in which you get an assortment of unnamed bulbs, or by named varieties, in which you know beforehand exactly what you're getting.

Generally speaking, the mixtures are very good value, with the bulbs running around seven to nine cents each. These will produce magnificent flowers as a rule, and in good variety, but I think you'll find it a bit frustrating, as time goes on, not to know the names of your pets.

For my money, it is a lot more fun to buy your bulbs by name, even though they may cost a little more. If you label them carefully as you plant them, you'll find you develop certain favorites as they come into bloom, and you'll be able to hold forth learnedly over the back fence on the respective merits of Elizabeth the Queen and Fire Opal.

When you buy your bulbs, try to think of it as starting a collection — an investment rather than an expense. Glad bulbs multiply fairly fast, you know, and every bulb you buy this spring may be a dozen bulbs in a few years' time. Start with bargain counter trash today, and you'll wind up with a whole garden full of worthless rubbish. Start with a few pedigreed named kinds, and you can parlay them into a valuable collection of thoroughbreds.

Prices early in the season will run from about 75c to $1.50 per dozen bulbs. All-America Award winners and very new varieties may be priced as high as $4 per dozen, but I should point out that a very high price doesn't necessarily mean a more beautiful flower; it is more an indication of rarity and newness than a measure of excellence.

Late in the season, as the stores start clearing away what is left of their stock, prices may drop as low as 49c per dozen, for a dealer can't carry unsold bulbs over to next year — they must be sold and planted this spring or consigned to the incinerator.

Generally speaking, these end-of-season bargains are a pretty good buy, providing they were sound bulbs of named varieties to start with, and providing they have been given good storage conditions. The bulbs should be clean-skinned, firm and hard to the touch, never soft when squeezed, and if sprouted, the sprouts shouldn't be more than an inch long. I have bought pedigreed bulbs as late as the middle of June and have never had cause to regret it.

If you buy your bulbs from open bins, the kind to select are not the biggest across, for the very large, flatish kinds seldom produce the best spikes of bloom. For prize-winning flowers, you want a rounder, high-shouldered type of bulb, thick through from top to bottom, and with a smallish root scar on the bottom. Such a bulb is a "virgin"; that is, it is a young bulb grown from a cornet rather than one formed by the splitting up of an old bulb.

Another flower show tomorrow, this time the North San Diego Garden Club's spring show in Samscha Hall, Sidney, opening at 3 p.m. I wasn't informed of the admission price, but the usual pattern is 75c in the afternoon, tea included, and 25c in the evening, sans eats. My apologies if I have guessed wrong.

Fake Scientist Drew Two Salaries

Impostor Fools Russians

By EDMUND STEVENS, from Moscow

There are quite a few red faces now in the Leningrad scientific community, including those of the directors of two of that city's research institutes. And with good reason. For the past two years they were completely taken in by a 26-year-old impostor who told them he was a physicist with a doctor's degree.

Until he suddenly vanished some days ago he had been head of the laboratory at the Leningrad Institute of Telecommunications for 12 months. For a year before that he had worked as a senior scientist at the Leningrad Institute of Aviation Instrumentation.

The impostor, identified so far only by his surname, Gendlin, might have continued his masquerade but for his greed.

His monthly salary of 350 rubles at the Telecommunications Institute, high by Soviet standards, just wasn't enough.

Without giving notice, he left for a job at the Institute of Electronic Measuring Instruments, who gladly hired him as their laboratory head. But a few days later Gendlin went back to the Telecommunications Institute and was promptly reinstated.

After another 18 days he returned to the Electronic Measuring Institute asking to be taken back. The director obligingly cancelled the order of dismissal and from then on Gendlin drew full salaries from the two institutes.

How did Gendlin pass as a scientist for two years without being found out?

According to Izvestia the answer is simple. During his masquerade Gendlin did no scientific work. He made no mistakes and so there was nothing against him. But though he knew nothing about science he was versed in the administration of research institutes.

Having read an article in a popular scientific fiction magazine he approached the director of the Institute of Aviation Instrumentation in 1961 and told him he had a scheme for a memory machine.

By way of credentials he produced a forged diploma and the director, without further inquiry, approved the project, and assigned a five-man team of technicians to work with him.

Whenever his associates quizzed him about details of the memory machine, Gendlin said his application for a patent was pending, so he could describe his machine only in general terms.

One day Gendlin came to the institute carrying a small box and announced that this was a model of his memory machine. But the box contained a crystal that could not be exposed to the light and could not be opened.

There were murmurs of doubt, but Gendlin managed to silence them by declaring he was in constant touch with senior Soviet scientists. His team members knew, or suspected, he was a fraud, but he had successfully won their loyalty by wangling salary increases for them.

Eventually, professor Shitmanov, director of the Aviation Instrumentation Institute, began to suspect Gendlin.

Sensing that his luck was running out, Gendlin resigned from the Aviation Instrumentation Institute and moved over to the Telecommunications Institute—taking with him his five-man research team. When Gendlin realized that his profitable hoax had not long to run he vanished.

He has not been found and is probably starting a new "scientific" career somewhere else in Russia under a different name. It's a big country.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Beau Bores Brigitte

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—They tell me Brigitte Bardot is getting bored with rich businessman beau Bob Saget. Bob, who's in love with Brigitte, not to mention the publicity, has asked some members of his family to rush to Mexico to plead his cause. Brigitte's in Mexico starring in Louis Malle's Viva Maria.

The Greek Ambassador to France, Jean Kalergis, has blasted Zorba, the Greek, as anti-tourist and humiliating to the Greek people. He said "it gives a deplorable image of Greece. You think, after seeing the film, that it never ceased raining in Greece, and that the people are violent, primitive and savage."

Gerardine Chaplin attended the Paris preview of By A Beautiful Summer Evening, in which she made her movie debut. A sneaky photographer took a picture of the attractive young actress yawning! The nicest thing about Gerardine is that, in spite of her famous parents, she is completely unspooled. When the press clippings—all good—arrive at her apartment she is like a little child in her pleasure.

Jean-Paul Belmondo's 18-year-old sister, Mariel, dreams of being an actress, and her big brother is in agreement, provided the roles she plays are respectable. He turned thumbs down on a proposition that would have her play "his" sister, but involving an incestuous scene.

Simone Signoret's 17-year-old daughter, Catherine Allegret, after making her film debut in Peter Ustinov's Lady L, just made her stage debut in a Farandole play in Paris. Stepfather Yves Montand gave Catherine good advice. Eat raw beef every night before going on stage. It's good for the voice.

Tina Marquand, Jean Pierre Aumont's and the late Maria Montez's daughter (Tina was recently married to Christian Marquand), is now studying at the Actors' Studio in New York. I understand that her bills are all being paid by Darryl F. Zanuck, the big boss at 20th Century-Fox. He has put her under contract and her weekly paycheck is close to $500 per week.

Famed dressmaker Oleg Cassini will open his Paris salon in the summer. His best known client, Mrs. John F. Kennedy, I understand, has promised to attend. He is also counting greatly on the appearance of Princess Grace of Monaco to launch his grand premiere.

Speaking of Grace, she absolutely refuses to comment on the memoirs of her grandmother-in-law, Princess Ghislaine of Monaco, entitled Be A Princess. He said, Grace, who is more royal than royalty, feels she doesn't need any pointers on the subject.

Quote from Peter Ustinov, who is producer, director, writer and also plays a brief part of Prince Otto of Bavaria in Lady L: "I like playing princes and kings. You get better service at the studio restaurant."

Carolyn Jones was heartbroken because she couldn't play Kirk Douglas' wife in East A Giant Shadow, since it would conflict with the shooting schedule of her successful Addams Family series. However, she was given a hefty bonus by her TV producer to help mend that broken heart.

The 1964 academy awards aren't a month old, and Red Steagole is already being touted for an Oscar nomination for next year for his shattering performance in The Pawnbroker. He may very well get one, but isn't it a bit too soon to talk about it?

Honor for Quebec Mayor

By A. H. MURPHY
City Hall Reporter

Robert Cauchon, the genial mayor of Valleyfield, who sparkplugged the visit to Victoria last November of 200 Quebec municipal leaders, will be made an honorary citizen of this city.

The official ceremony will be conducted by Mayor R. E. Wilson in the council chamber of the municipality of Salaberry-de-Valleyfield during the reciprocal visit of B.C. municipal officials to Quebec in May.

Mayor Wilson was made an honorary citizen of Valleyfield last year following the visit of member of l'Union des Municipalités. The illuminated resolution now hangs in his city hall office.

A resolution authorizing the action was unanimously passed by city council Thursday afternoon.

It recalled the "historic" four-day visit to Victoria in November and the deep impression made on people here by the warmth and friendliness of the Quebec delegation.

The five-day visit of members of the Union of B.C. Municipalities in May is calculated to increase understanding between "the two main ethnic groups" of Canada, the resolution points out and, as such, is a splendid undertaking.

Mayor Cauchon, originator of the reciprocal visit idea, is praised for his ability, initiative and personality and, in recognition of his fine qualities as a man and a Canadian, "is hereby bestowed upon him the title and distinction of honorary citizen of the City of Victoria, British Columbia, making him the first mayor to be so honored."

The Victoria party at the time of the bestowal in Valleyfield will number 10 or 15, Mayor Wilson said.

Trio Surrenders In Shooting Case

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Three white men indicted in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Viola Liuzzo, a white civil rights worker from Detroit, surrendered in Birmingham Thursday.

William Orville Eaton, 41, and Colie Leroy Wilkins, 21, were released on $10,000 bond each. They were indicted earlier on Thursday by a grand jury at Hayneville.

The cases will go on the docket for the next term of circuit court which begins May 3.

The trio, Eugene Thomas, 42,

Wow—also daffodil that even Texans would be proud of is displayed by visitor Patricia Smith, 6, of Coquitlam. The 45½-inch tall daffs are grown by J. E. Grant, 4877 Wesley Road, who also grows 60-pound squash and king-size philodendrons. —(Bud Kinsman)

Long Line of Cars Waits for Ferries

Signs of summer Wednesday and Thursday were exceptionally long lineups of cars waiting to board B.C. ferries at Swartz Bay for passage to Tsawwassen.

Victoria businessman Ernest Hudson reported a three-hour wait before boarding the ferry at Swartz Bay and another long wait again at Tsawwassen on the return trip.

Many drivers returned to Victoria to spend the night rather than wait in line-ups.

Beginning at 7 a.m. today the ferries will sail hourly up to 10 p.m. This schedule will be in effect for the weekend only.

The spring sailing schedule comes into effect Monday when ferries will operate every two hours 7 a.m. to 9 p.m., with extra sailings at 8 a.m., noon, 4 p.m. and 8 p.m.

The summer schedule starts June 14, with sailings every hour on the hour from 7 a.m. until 10 p.m.

New Push For Bank

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

The bank of B.C. application for a federal charter will be reactivated immediately in the Senate, Premier Bennett said Thursday.

The previous application died along with those for two other proposed banks, the Bank of Western Canada and Laurentide, when the last session ended.

EASY PASSAGE
Mr. Bennett predicted a quick and easy passage for the B.C. Bank bill through the Senate this time.

It will be in the Commons that B.C. will face the test of what the premier terms the government's "wish" to invest in the proposed new bank with headquarters in Vancouver.

He expects the three bank charter applications to be passed quickly by the Senate and then turned over by the Commons to a special banking committee.

WILL STUDY
At the same time this Commons committee will probably study the Pearson government's proposed amendment to the Bank Act that would prohibit provinces from buying bank shares.

"What happens in the Commons is something we will meet when it comes," said the premier. But he added that at this stage B.C. would probably make further representations to Ottawa.

STAGE WAS SET
Mr. Bennett said the stage was set for quick Senate approval of the B.C. bill when it referred original application back to the banking committee at the end of last session.

The B.C. bill will be unchanged except that the section limiting government participation to 10 per cent will be omitted, Mr. Bennett said.

This stipulation is now contained in amendments to the provincial Revenue Act, passed at the last session, which permits the government to purchase up to 10 per cent of the shares in any chartered bank.

Naval Craft Targets In U.S. Raid

From Reuters, UPI

U.S. Navy aircraft Thursday made what was believed to be the first strike directed specifically against North Vietnamese naval vessels.

Elsewhere:

● South Vietnamese forces massed for a major attack on a concentration of 3,000 Viet Cong troops threatening the U.S. base at Da Nang.

● In Washington President Johnson met with top advisers on Viet Nam amid preparations to boost U.S. military aid to South Viet Nam, but the Pentagon clamped tight security reins on details of the aid.

● For the first time, U.S. Marine ground troops fought Communist guerrillas on Vietnamese battlefields while 82 U.S. and Vietnamese planes hurled 60 tons of bombs and rockets on North Vietnamese targets.

In the naval air attack, U.S. A-4 Skyhawk jets hit two patrol boats and two large junks at the entrance to the Vinh estuary, about 150 miles south of Hanoi.

While President Johnson apparently remained unimpressed by demands at home and abroad for an end to U.S. air attacks on North Viet Nam, leading officials said the U.S. would send several thousand U.S. officers and men to South Viet Nam soon to help with supply and training problems.

● The Marines' battlefield baptism came under a scorching sun when a platoon of about 50 men, on a reconnaissance patrol was surprised by the Viet Cong. After an exchange of small arms fire, in which one Marine was slightly wounded, the Viet Cong retired. Two other Marines were treated for heat prostration.

Private War of Private Pearson

Ypres 'Hero' Just Off Ship

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson recalls the battle of Ypres by connecting it with the day when a head-waiter tried to toss him out of a London restaurant.

Mr. Pearson told the story at a press conference after noting the 50th anniversary of the First World War battle where Canadian soldiers stood firm in the face of the first gas attack launched by the Germans.

The future prime minister was a private in the Canadian Army at the time, although he later became a pilot with the Royal Flying Corps.

Mr. Pearson said he was in London on leave with another soldier shortly after arrival in Britain. The two tried to go into a posh restaurant and were told to leave by the headwaiter because the restaurant served only officers.

At this point, Mr. Pearson said, an Englishman recognized them as Canadians and rose from his table to push the headwaiter aside.

"These are two of the men who held the line at Ypres,"

POLICE TIED TO SECOND HEIST

Chief Booth

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police Chief Ralph Booth rocked the city Thursday by connecting members of his department with a second major crime.

He made his announcement as veteran police officers were still speaking in awe and horror of the slaughtering by a Vancouver policeman of his wife and six children. The policeman then shot himself to death. (See also Page 10.)

The constable — Leonard Hogue — had been connected by the department Wednesday with the February theft of $1,250,000 in mutilated currency from a Canadian Pacific Railway warehouse.

Chief Booth said several members of the force were under suspicion in that robbery and the earlier $13,000 holdup of a branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia in suburban Dunbar.

An internal probe of the department would be stepped up, he said.

Independent Probe

The chief's disclosures were followed by an announcement by Mayor Bill Ratlis that the police commission would investigate the matter independent of Chief Booth's internal probe.

The commission's report will be submitted to the provincial attorney-general's department, said the mayor, who made his announcement following a closed police commission meeting at which Chief Booth submitted a report.

In a statement, Chief Booth said the methods used in both robberies were similar — just before each crime there were false holdup calls that sent city police on wild goose chases. The criminals had knowledge of police procedure "and how to protect themselves under such circumstances," he said.

He said the police department had not been surprised when a former Vancouver police officer was arrested in Edmonton in connection with the currency robbery.

"We had a strong suspicion they had some internal help."

Joseph Percival, 37, the former constable, and James McDougall, 32, both of Vancouver, were arrested in Edmonton last week. They are due to appear in Edmonton police court Friday on charges of retaining stolen property.

Hogue was a close friend of Percival. He had been under investigation in the currency robbery and knew it. On Monday he was involved in a minor car accident.

Wednesday he used a borrowed .357-calibre magnum revolver, large enough to knock over big game, to kill first his wife, then his six children. He had chased some of the children as far as the basement, stopping to reload.

Deputy Chief John Fluk said Thursday several policemen

With Foreign Countries

Quebec Plans To Make Own Treaties

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec intends to negotiate directly with foreign countries on matters the province will be called on to put into action, Paul Gerin-Lajoie, Quebec education minister, said Thursday night.

Addressing French, Belgian and Swiss university representatives, the Quebec government's constitutional expert said the province will fill this role "because of its function as the collective instrument of French-Canadians."

His statement was expected to cause angry reaction in Ottawa, which has always been strongly against any agreements between individual provinces and foreign governments.

Prime Minister Pearson told an Ottawa press conference earlier Thursday he is sure that Mr. Gerin-Lajoie will agree that the government of Canada makes treaties with other countries and other countries deal with the Canadian government.

OTTAWA 'POWERLESS'

"The federal government is completely powerless to assure the working out and application of agreements it concludes with other countries if these fall within the sphere of provinces," said Mr. Gerin-Lajoie.

"It is not only for constitutional and for internal political reasons that Quebec has decided to negotiate agreements directly with foreign countries but also for reasons of efficiency."

DETERMINATION

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie said the recent signing of an agreement between Quebec and France on an exchange of students, teachers and researchers illustrates the determination of Quebec to collaborate with other members of the French-speaking world "and to make known its real face to the modern world."

He said Quebec intends to negotiate agreements with foreign countries not only within exclusively provincial fields but also in areas of common interest with the federal government.

Cathedral

Bomb Thrown At Altar

NEW YORK (AP) — A man hurled a gasoline bomb at the main altar of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Cathedral Thursday night and it exploded amid a small group of worshippers. One woman was burned.

The man, described as a Negro in his late 20s, raced out a side door, leaving behind a second, unexploded bomb.

There were about 100 persons in the cathedral at the time. It was the second incident within the cathedral in less than a week. Good Friday services were disrupted when a former mental patient threw a concrete block through a glass case containing a life-sized statue of Pope Pius XII.

Mayor, Chief Turn Sod

Industrial Era Opens On Cowichan Reserve

DUNCAN — Two years of planning for an ambitious development of industrial and commercial acreage, including 55 acres of Indian reserve land, was capped with a sod-turning ceremony Thursday.

Mayor Jack Dobson and Cowichan Chief Mike Underwood turned the sod on the block on industrial land between Trans-Canada highway, Trunk road, Cowichan River, and the E and N tracks. (See also Page 8.)

First firm to establish in the block is Doman Industries Ltd., when fully developed the site will contain 50 different commercial enterprises.

The sod-turning ceremony took place on the area's main thoroughfare, Cowichan Way, from which side roads will provide access to various parcels of land.

Cowichan band and Duncan city will work jointly to provide roads, sewers, and water service. Lease money will be collected by the band, taxes will go to the city.

Officials Present

Assembled on the partially-completed thoroughfare for the opening of development were officials of the city, band, Indian affairs department, North Cowichan municipality, and representatives of Duncan's business community, advisory planning commission, chamber of commerce, and MLA Robert Strachan.

Mayor Dobson congratulated the Indians on their effort to make the industrial development a reality.

Chief Underwood paid tribute to the work of city council.

The mayor said as applications of leases come in, services will be provided as quickly as possible.

He said: "I have studied many records during the past several months, and I can say this is the first time such a joint development between Indians and a city has been a success."

The development will be Duncan's "industrial empire," said Mayor Dobson. Overall plans call for attractive landscaping, and public walking paths.

Child Drowns In Shallow Pool In His Backyard

NANAIMO — An 18-month-old boy drowned in less than a foot of water, while playing in the backyard of his home Thursday.

David Avender, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Avender, fell into a small ornamental fish pool while playing in the yard of his home, 114 Fifth Street, during the morning.

Firemen used a pulmonator, external cardiac massage, and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation in attempts to revive the boy.

David was pronounced dead at Nanaimo regional general hospital.

Meanwhile the search for 15-year-old Terence La Fortune of Cedar, missing during a fishing trip at Dods Narrows Wednesday, continues.

He was accompanied on the trip by Sharon Salmark, 15, of Ladysmith.

She said their 14-foot boat, which was equipped with outboard motor, drifted away from the shore of DeCourcy Island.

SWAN FOR BOAT

The boy swam through the icy waters after the boat.

Sharon Salmark said the last time she saw the boy he had reached the side of the boat; then both boy and boat disappeared from sight around a point of the island.

The boat, empty, was found later in the afternoon.

Cedar residents, RCMP, and RCAF rescue will continue the search today.

Port Alberni Invests In Tourism

PORT ALBERNI — Chamber of Commerce has approved spending of $2,500 for tourist promotion this year.

Edna Southern, president of the chamber, expressed confidence in the tourist committee headed by Ed Moore, at the regular weekly meeting of the chamber.

The meeting learned the amount required for tourism is slightly higher than the amount asked for several weeks ago by Mr. Moore.

The total includes a $400 grant to Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau for external advertising.

Mrs. Southern said it is not yet known how much the publicity bureau will ask for this year.

"If it is more than $400, it will have to come from some other fund," she commented.

DUNCAN — The fifth career workshop in this area will be conducted by Mrs. Gordon Mitchell at Brentwood College, Mill Bay, at 7:30 p.m. today.

Mrs. Mitchell is special service officer with Duncan branch, National Employment Office. During the past few months she has organized four other similar workshops for senior students in public and private schools.

Some of the more prominent counsellors tonight will be: Dr. George Brand, University of Victoria, counselling in education; Dr. W. M. Armstrong, head of the Metallurgy Department, UBC; David Logan, provincial bridge design engineer; V. H. Phelps, provincial forester; and A. F. Shepherd, Department of mines and petroleum resources.

Other professions to be counselled are: computing, business administration and managing, commerce, law, accounting, civil services, three different kinds of engineering, architecture, geology, dentistry, medicine and armed forces.

Mrs. Mitchell said, "I consider these workshops extremely valuable because they expose students on an intimate basis with men actually working in these fields."

Impaired Driving Costs Man $150

COURTENAY — Bert Kois, Vancouver, was fined $150 and lost his driver's licence for three months when he was convicted by Magistrate John Ryland of impaired driving.

Kois was reported to have forced the RCMP patrol car off the road at 3 p.m., April 20.

when he went six feet over the white line.

Police chased his vehicle and while following saw it cross the white line six more times. On the Oyster River Bridge approach the driver lost complete control and swerved around.

Checking the car police found Kois showed signs of being impaired.

Nanaimo School Board

More Land Needed

NANAIMO — The school section, long familiar on the Prairie, could become a necessity in local subdivisions.

Nanaimo school board will prepare a resolution and a brief for presentation to the B.C.

School Trustees Association requesting whenever construction of a subdivision is approved it be required that an adequate parcel of land be set aside for school purposes.

The resolution is a result of what the school board feels was a lack of good faith on the part of Canadian Industries Limited, which allowed subdivision of property at Departure Bay that had been tentatively promised to the school board.

The board offered $24,400 for 7.3 acres of the land.

The offer was in reply to a proposal from CIL that the board buy the property for $10,000 an acre.

The property is adjacent to St. James Anglican church on Departure Bay road. The board is not able to expand nearby Princess Anne School because of a lack of space.

ADVANCE POLLS

Also at the recent board meeting:

Advance polls for school board referendums will be held to enable persons out of town at the time the actual vote is held to get their ballots included.

The board approved the addition of two kindergarten classes to the five now in the district.

Last September kindergarten classes were approved for Northfield, Fairview, Park Avenue, Princess Royal and Brechin schools. There were two hundred children enrolled in the morning and afternoon classes.

KINDERGARTEN

This September, kindergarten classes will be started at South Wellington and Harwood elementary schools. Registration fees will be non-refundable.

The board will go ahead with a sixth room at Seaview elementary school in Ladysmith. Negotiations for the purchase of property in the Harwood area and negotiations for a possible addition to Fairview elementary school site.

day from Health Minister Eric Martin agreeing to granting of a contract for construction of the new Cowichan district hospital.

Mr. Green said the minister concurred with the board's decision to let the tender to the lowest of five bidders, Smith Brothers and Wilson Ltd. of Vancouver, for $3,982,500.

The contract will be signed this weekend, and construction will begin next week.

"I am very happy about the whole thing, after five years of hard work," said Mr. Green.

An inquest will be held.

Brannan Lake School

Detention as 'Last Resort'

COURTENAY — Brannan Lake school should be used only as a "last resort" in the opinion of Family and Children's court committee here.

At a recent meeting the committee said children should only be sent to the detention school at Nanaimo if they are or are about to become, a menace to the community.

Three of the committee members recently toured the school.

They expressed concern regarding the non-availability of sufficient psychiatric services at the school to make assessments.

Members felt the shortage of staff cuts down on possible effectiveness of the program.

However, during their visit the committee members found the school well run, and they were impressed with the physical layout of the buildings.

The committee decided to embark on a program of community rehabilitation of juveniles. But this program will require adequate psychiatric facilities.

The meeting expressed concern over lack of response to an appeal for foster homes.

Most residents who did respond wanted to take in younger children, leaving teenagers without foster homes.

The committee said the lack of foster homes is hurting a program of follow-up treatment for young offenders.

The meeting also charged there is a lack of local interest in the program, and a lack of resources to make it effective.

Members said greater participation by members of the community is required for treatment and rehabilitation of these young people.

Confinement in an institution such as Brannan Lake is not the answer to the problem of troubled youngsters.

New Machine Replaces Library Card System

NANAIMO — A new system of handling library books, without using a library card, is being tried out at Nanaimo branch of Vancouver Island Regional Library.

A machine has been installed which checks the signature of the borrower, allowing him to go into any branch of the regional library, sign his name, and get books.

Thousands of dollars of clerical time has been saved by the system in Washington state, according to regional library officials.

There are no more problems with lost cards. Books can be processed in half the usual time.

With the system in operation at Nanaimo branch only a week, there is already an increase in circulation.

The signature machine enables a whole family to borrow books over one person's signature.

The machines are being installed at Port Alberni, Courtenay, Colwood, Campbell River, Duncan, and other branches, and will also be standard equipment for bookmobiles.

Port Alberni Pensioners Plan Tag Day

PORT ALBERNI — More than 60 members attended the April meeting of Port Alberni branch, Old Age Pensioners' Organization, when past president Mrs. P. Corbett was a guest of honor.

President Mrs. A. Damery conducted the meeting at which Mrs. Corbett, now living in Vancouver, was welcomed by the members.

Generosity of various local organizations resulted in arrangements for a bus to take members to the Arts and Crafts Centre for the regular social gatherings until the end of the year.

SUMMER PICNIC
Plans were made to hold the annual tag day in both Port Alberni and Alberni Saturday, June 12.

Mrs. Damery agreed to discuss plans for the annual summer picnic with representatives of other branches at the regional meeting, to be held in Nanaimo this month. Eight other members will attend the meeting with the president.

Mrs. Damery paid tribute to youth groups in the Valley, particularly the DeWolfe and the swim club, for their interest in the pensioners.

DeWolfe visited the homes of 11 elderly and infirm people, taking on window-washing and other odd jobs, while the swim club offered help on the tag day.

Also thanked was the ladies' auxiliary to the Fraternal Order of Eagles whose members have served refreshments at regular meetings over a long period.

A fish and chip supper, convened by Mrs. Russell West, was a feature of the meeting.

School Toured By Spade Club

NANAIMO — Spade club from Nanaimo high school toured Woodlands School for retarded children in New Westminster Thursday. The 25 girls were accompanied by George Ridd, of Nanaimo Kiwanis, the service club that sponsors Spades.

Wed 60 Years

Family Fetes Engineer, Wife

By MARGARET TREBETT

PORT ALBERNI — The man who operated the first electric tram on a regular run over London Bridge in England, is celebrating with his wife their diamond wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Robinson, who came to Port Alberni in 1926, are surrounded by family and friends.

OPEN HOUSE

Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. David H. King, 216 Tenth Avenue S., will hold open house for them from 2 to 5 p.m., Sunday. A family dinner on Saturday night will bring together many of the couple's descendants.

At their own spotless home at 508 Twelfth South, Mrs. Robinson, 80, continues to keep house and Mr. Robinson, 83, can't resist the lure of the garden.

SAWMILL TOWN

They have seen Port Alberni grow from a little sawmill town to its present status in the forest industry.

When he went to work as a crane operator in 1926 in Alberni Pacific Lumber operations, Mr. Robinson recalls carriers were not invented and lumber was hauled around the yard by horses. By virtue of his steam operator's ticket, Mr. Robinson was making 75 cents an hour, but the average wage was between 30 and 35 cents.

EASTER WEDDING

Mr. Robinson, youngest son among his mother's 21 children, never went to school. He and Maude Tyler were married at Walthamstow, a suburb of London, on Easter Monday, 1905.

Their three sons, Fred, who died in an industrial accident several years ago, Bill and Leonard, were born in England, and came to Canada in 1913 with their mother.

Their father had come to the Pacific coast 15 months before and was required to wait for six months before writing his engineer's exams. He recalls his difficulties with the written exams and the fact that it was the 98 per cent he received in the practical section that gave him a passing mark.

With his steam ticket, he was soon able to earn enough to bring the family to join him at Victoria, where he had a job at the drydocks and, later, became engineer superintendent for a shipyard building ships for the French government.

Judging Class For 4-H Clubs

COBBLE HILL — Two groups of 4-H clubs will visit the Malahat View farm of Mr. and Mrs. Hamish Sibbald, Chapman Road, Saturday afternoon. Members of Saanich and Maple Ridge clubs will be given instruction in judging by Mr. and Mrs. Sibbald. Mrs. Sibbald said Maple Ridge, from Fraser Valley will arrive on Vancouver Island today.

During his working days in Port Alberni, Mr. Robinson built a large house near the Eighth Avenue School on lots bought from the late Paddy O'Toole. He recalls buying a new Dodge car for $700.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were keen basketball fans and they remember when half of Port Alberni would go over to Vancouver when the home town team competed in championship games.

LIFE-MEMBER
After Mr. Robinson retired, the couple moved to Parkville, where he became an ardent gardener and an enthusiastic member of the Garden Club. He brought his entries to Port Alberni for the annual fall fair and was the only man to win the aggregate trophy, an award generally won by women who compete in many divisions.

He had received the Parkville District Garden Club rose-howl for the most points in vegetable and flower divisions and was eventually made an honorary life member of the club.

Of greatest pride, however, is an accident-free driving record in the 40 years from the time he owned his first car in 1914 until he surrendered his licence in 1954.

The Robinsons have 20 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren. Looking them over, Mr. Robinson recalled that he paid a two-shilling fee when he was married and quipped, "It was a bargain."

New Push For Bank

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

The bank of B.C. application for a federal charter will be reactivated immediately in the Senate, Premier Bennett said Thursday.

The previous application died along with those for two other proposed banks, the Bank of Western Canada and Laurendeau, when the last session ended.

EASY PASSAGE

Mr. Bennett predicted a quick and easy passage for the B.C. Bank bill through the Senate this time.

It will be in the Commons that B.C. will face the test of what the premier terms the government's "wish" to invest in the proposed new bank with headquarters in Vancouver. He expects the three bank charter applications to be passed quickly by the Senate and then turned over by the Commons to a special banking committee.

WILL STUDY

At the same time this Commons committee will probably study the Pearson government's proposed amendment to the Bank Act that would prohibit provinces from buying bank shares.

"What happens in the Commons is something we will meet when it comes," said the premier. But he added that at this stage B.C. would probably make further representations to Ottawa.

STAGE WAS SET

Mr. Bennett said the stage was set for quick Senate approval of the B.C. bill when it referred original application back to the banking committee at the end of last session.

The B.C. bill will be unchanged except that the section limiting government participation to 10 per cent will be omitted, Mr. Bennett said.

This stipulation is now contained in amendments to the provincial Revenue Act, passed at the last session, which permits the government to purchase up to 10 per cent of the shares in any chartered bank.

Naval Craft Targets In U.S. Raid

From Reuters, UPI

U.S. Navy aircraft Thursday made what was believed to be the first strike directed specifically against North Vietnamese naval vessels.

Elsewhere:

● South Vietnamese forces massed for a major attack on a concentration of 3,000 Viet Cong troops threatening the U.S. base at Da Nang.

● In Washington President Johnson met with top advisers on Viet Nam amid preparations to boost U.S. military aid to South Viet Nam, but the Pentagon clamped tight security reins on details of the aid.

● For the first time, U.S. Marine ground troops fought Communist guerrillas on Vietnamese battlefields while 82 U.S. and Vietnamese planes hurled 80 tons of bombs and rockets on North Vietnamese targets.

● In the naval air attack, U.S. A-4 Skyhawk jets hit two patrol boats and two large junks at the entrance to the Vinh estuary, about 150 miles south of Hanoi.

While President Johnson apparently remained unimpressed by demands at home and abroad for an end to U.S. air attacks on North Viet Nam, leading officials said the U.S. would send several thousand U.S. officers and men to South Viet Nam soon to help with supply and training problems.

● The Marines' battlefield baptism came under a scorching sun when a platoon of about 50 men, on a reconnaissance patrol was surprised by the Viet Cong. After an exchange of small arms fire, in which one Marine was slightly wounded, the Viet Cong retired. Two other Marines were treated for heat prostration.

Private War of Private Pearson

Ypres 'Hero' Just Off Ship

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson recalls the battle of Ypres by connecting it with the day when a head-waiter tried to toss him out of a London restaurant. Mr. Pearson told the story at a press conference after noting the 50th anniversary of the First World War battle where Canadian soldiers stood firm in the face of the first gas attack launched by the Germans.

The future prime minister was a private in the Canadian Army at the time, although he later became a pilot with the Royal Flying Corps. Mr. Pearson said he was in London on leave with another soldier shortly after arrival in the Englishman said in a voice heard throughout the dining room as he invited the two Canadians in.

Britain. The two tried to go into a posh restaurant and were told to leave by the headwaiter because the restaurant served only officers. At this point, Mr. Pearson said, an Englishman recognized them as Canadians and rose from his table to push the headwaiter aside. "These are two of the men who held the line at Ypres,"

Mr. Pearson said with a grin that the incident was a bit embarrassing because "we were just off the troopship and the only things we had withstood were the temptations of London."

POLICE SUSPECT ON EARLIER JOB CHIEF REPORTS

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police Chief Ralph Booth rocked the city Thursday by connecting members of his department with a second major crime.

He made his announcement as veteran police officers were still speaking in awe and horror of the slaughtering by a Vancouver policeman of his wife and six children. The policeman then shot himself to death. (See also Page 10.)

The constable — Leonard Hogue — had been connected by the department Wednesday with the February theft of $1,250,000 in mutilated currency from a Canadian Pacific Railway warehouse.

Chief Booth said several members of the force were under suspicion in that robbery and the earlier $13,000 holdup of a branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia in suburban Dunbar.

An internal probe of the department would be stepped up, he said.

Report to Bonner

The chief's disclosures were followed by an announcement by Mayor Bill Rathie that the police commission would prepare a report on the investigation.

The commission's report will be submitted to the provincial attorney-general's department, said the mayor, who made his announcement following a closed police commission meeting at which Chief Booth submitted a report.

In a statement, Chief Booth said the methods used in both robberies were similar — just before each crime there were false holdup calls that sent city police on wild goose chases. The criminals had knowledge of police procedure "and how to protect themselves under such circumstances," he said.

He said the police department had not been surprised when a former Vancouver police officer was arrested in Edmonton in connection with the currency robbery. "We had a strong suspicion they had some internal help."

Joseph Percival, 37, the former constable, and James McDougall, 32, both of Vancouver, were arrested in Edmonton last week. They are due to appear in Edmonton police court Friday on charges of retaining stolen property.

Hogue was a close friend of Percival. He had been under investigation in the currency robbery and knew it. On Monday he was involved in a minor car accident.

Wednesday he used a borrowed .357-calibre magnum revolver, large enough to knock over big game, to kill first his wife, then his six children. He had chased some of the children as far as the basement, stopping to reload.

Deputy Chief John Flak said Thursday several policemen

Four-State Area

Makeshift Dikes Hit By Swirling Waters

DUBUQUE, Iowa (AP) — Flood waters of the rampaging Mississippi River, far out of its banks along a 400-mile stretch, are posing new threats to communities in a four-state area.

With approaching crests still one or more days away, the river's churning waters pounded Thursday near the tops of makeshift dikes from Prairie du Chien, Wis., to Louisiana, Mo.

In Washington, President Johnson designated Iowa a disaster area eligible for federal aid, the third state so defined as a result of Mississippi River flooding. The others are Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The presidential action came as volunteers manning improvised dikes in Dubuque, a city of 57,000 population, poured tons of dirt into a break that threatened to inundate a residential area in the city's northwestern section. A mile-long section of Dubuque's business and industrial area along the river already is flooded.

Across the river from Dubuque, national guardsmen and volunteers reinforced dikes protecting East Dubuque, Ill., where more than 700 residents already have been evacuated to higher ground.

Creeping of the Mississippi is expected here late Saturday.

REINFORCE RAPIDLY
Upstream at Prairie du Chien, Wis., where the crest was expected earlier, the river was rising rapidly and the city's more than 5,000 residents were prepared for the worst.

Nearly a month of flooding along the Mississippi has caused damage estimated at more than $80,000,000 in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa. Nearly 50,000 persons have been reported driven from their homes in Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Eleven deaths in Minnesota and three in Wisconsin have been blamed on the flood.

With Foreign Countries

Quebec Plans To Make Own Treaties

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec intends to negotiate directly with foreign countries on matters the province will be called on to put into action, Paul Gerin-Lajoie, Quebec education minister, said Thursday night.

Addressing French, Belgian and Swiss university representatives, the Quebec government's constitutional expert said the province will fill this role "because of its function as the collective instrument of French-Canadians."

His statement was expected to cause angry reaction in Ottawa, which has always been strongly against any agreements between individual provinces and foreign governments.

Prime Minister Pearson told an Ottawa press conference earlier Thursday he is sure that Mr. Gerin-Lajoie will agree that the government of Canada makes treaties with other countries and other countries deal with the Canadian government.

OTTAWA 'POWERLESS'
"The federal government is completely powerless to assure the working out and application of agreements it concludes with other countries if these fall within the sphere of provinces," said Mr. Gerin-Lajoie.

"It is not only for constitutional and for internal political reasons that Quebec has decided to negotiate agreements directly with foreign countries but also for reasons of efficiency."

DETERMINATION
Mr. Gerin-Lajoie said the recent signing of an agreement between Quebec and France on an exchange of students, teachers and researchers illustrates the determination of Quebec to collaborate with other members of the French-speaking world "and to make known its real face to the modern world."

He said Quebec intends to negotiate agreements with foreign countries not only within exclusively provincial fields but also in areas of common interest with the federal government.

NEW YORK (AP) — A man hurled a gasoline bomb at the main altar of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Cathedral Thursday night and it exploded amid a small group of worshippers. One woman was burned.

The man, described as a Negro in his late 20s, ran out a side door, leaving behind a second, unexploded bomb.

There were about 100 persons in the cathedral at the time.

It was the second incident within the cathedral in less than a week. Good Friday, services were disrupted when a former mental patient threw a concrete block through a glass case containing a life-sized statue of Pope Pius XII.
